Here Are Hal Garrett's Ideas For A Tri-City Auditorium In Detail; We Like 'Em—We Think You Will, Too

Hal Garrett, Carmel old timer, music lover and expert (renegade in one respect—he does music reviews for a Monterey paper—but nobody loves a man without at least one venial sin) gave a talk over KDON this week on the proposed tri-city auditorium located on top of Carmel hill.

Since the idea was revived by Hal at a time when a practical idea about an auditorium was crying for birth, any expansion on the theme by him is important. Therefore, we quote:

"We need a civic auditorium on the Monterey Peninsula because we have outgrown our present facilities. This has happened in growing communities everywhere. At first school auditoriums are sufficient for local needs and the few outside attractions that come to town. The Monterey Peninsula, which leads in so many things, has lagged behind other communities in providing a civic auditorium.

"Even San Jose had only a school auditorium until a few years ago, when they built their civic auditorium seating 3,400. Our largest hall is at the Pacific Grove high school. It seats 1,000. But we have outgrown it. People have been turned away from the Community Concert Series. The First Theater in Monterey could sell out twice for most every performance. Some of their plays could be staged in a larger auditorium. The Carmel Music Society and the Bach Festival have been turning patrons away by the hundreds.

"We have the population and resources to build a civic auditorium. Santa Cruz with 18,000 population has had one for years. I'm told the Monterey Peninsula and environs serve a population of 40,000. Our community is said to have a larger percentage of sophisticated concert and theater-goers than any similar community in the United States. Good attractions staged here would draw people from Salinas, Watsonville, and more distant points.

"We can be sure an auditorium would bring us world famous educational and cultural attractions. Eastern producers have assured us they would welcome an opportunity to send us practically all the important attractions sent to the coast. Right now we are being deprived of the Russian Ballet, grand opera, symphony orchestras, such New York successes as Glass Menagerie, Harvey, Hasty Heart, and countless others. If we pool our resources we can build an auditorium seating 2,500, equipped with a modern stage to take care of all re-

Your Planning Commission

There will be an adjourned meeting of the city council Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 for the purpose of hearing the first reading of an ordinance setting up a planning commission for Carmel. It took City Attorney Billy Hudson eight hours, by his own testimony, of solid work to get the ordinance ready for presentation. It will take City Clerk Peter Mawdsley from one and a half to two hours to read it to the city council.

This harried and conscientious individual (meaning us) has spent most of the week, with an hour here and an hour there, pondering over the thing so as to give a three minute summary to the Pine Cone readers, because, though it is a chore that we would gladly bypass, the ordinance, to quote Billy Hudson, is "damned important."

It provides for the appointment by the mayor, with the approval of the council, of a nine-man planning commission for staggered terms of from one year to four until the expiration of the first term of each, when the new appointments will be for four years. It provides that the council can levy a one cent tax to furnish funds for the operation of the planning commission.

The job of the planning commission is to draw up a master plan for the city, and from time to time, as need arises, "precise plans"—covering things they forgot to put in the master plan. Before the master plan can be adopted (this is the part you'll like) there must be a public hearing before the planning commission, where you'll have a chance to protest anything you do not like, and another public hearing before the city council.

And what may go into the master plan?

Drainage and flood control, parks, beaches, and playgrounds. Streets and highway plans, showing the general locations and widths of a comprehensive system of major traffic thoroughfares and other traffic ways and of streets and the recommended treatment thereof. Transportation, transit, public buildings, community designs. "Standards and principles governing the subdivisions of land and recommended patterns for community design and development." Housing: "Survey of housing conditions and needs, and plans

PON'S CASE AGAIN

On the court calendar in Salinas Monday is "Pon Chung vs. Alf Nilsen. Demurrer to first amended complaint." Only a lawyer knows what that is but anyway, it has to do with the year old struggle of Who Owns Pon's House, and is a technicality and not the main show which will come up in court goodness knows when.

Don Burger, new Highlands Inn proprietor, announced this week that he has withdrawn his application for a transfer of the Highlands Inn on sale liquor license. He stated that he is arranging a series of meetings with Highlands property owners and neighbors so as to apprise them of his plans for the hotel and he does not wish the liquor license pending during these discussions. However, it is his intention to file for transfer of the license at a later date, he said.

Last week a flood of letters protesting the transfer of the license went to the State Board of Equalization from Highlands property owners, who fear the new owner might establish a night club and bar in the area, which is almost entirely residential.

Burger's manager is Mark Thomas, and the two have controlling shares in the hotel. The latter, with Mrs. Thomas, will live on the premises as manager-owner. He was formerly associated with Del Monte Hotel and Del Monte Lodge.

Burger has been manager of the Sir Francis Drake in San Francisco, and of the Savoy Palace in New York. During the war he was on active duty with the Navy.

Only thirty-eight years old, he is regarded by his fellow hotel men as something of a phenomenon because of his rapid rise in the business.

Highlands People Rally To Form Protective Group

Taking a leaf from Carmel, Unincorporated's book, the residents of Carmel Highlands are banding together to form a group that will safeguard their interests in matters of zoning, maintaining the attractiveness of their community of homes, and in combatting the influx of any element or business that would disturb their present way of living.

An ad-interim committee, headed by Col C. S. Doney, is sending out a letter to every Highlands resident and property owner urging them to attend a mass meeting at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, October 28, at the Highlands Fire Station.

The letter reads: "In view of the fact that several matters affecting personal and community interests have lately arisen, and, in view of the fact that it is probable that similar matters will doubtless arise in the future, several residents have suggested that it would be desirable to have a periodic meeting of those whose

GETTING AROUND THE PENINSULA

By ROSALIND SHARPE

Up in the heart of the Cachagua there is a beautiful 1,400 acre cattle ranch owned by Martin Flavin. Here are rich and fertile acres where alfalfa, hay and other crops are raised. Here are fields for horses to crop and slopes for cattle to range and graze. Here are vegetable gardens, ranch buildings, and the foreman's house. Here in the summer time, in the blazing heat of noon, one can drop down into the Cachagua river for a quick dip ... for the Flavin ranch includes a mile and a half of stream.

Unfortunately, all of this lies in the path of the coming deluge and is doomed, like lost Atlantis, to sink beneath the wave, for the Martin Flavin ranch will form the very center of the second storage dam for the Monterey Peninsula water supply.

Ranch buildings, fertile acres, cattle and horses—all these will vanish and be replaced by a lake, whose tranquil surface will betray no hint of what has gone before.

Martin Flavin has been making his home in the Cachagua for the past two years in preference to Spindrift at Yankee Point in the Carmel Highlands.

Other Cachagua property owners to be principally affected are: (1) A syndicate of small property owners who have built summer homes, (2) The Nason property, with small cabins and a store, (3)

Prince's Camp, which has tourist cabins and a bar, and (4) Captain Chitterin, who has a home in the area, valued at $10,000.

The second dam, to be used as a storage reservoir to collect water for the Monterey Peninsula, will make it possible to clean and drain San Clemente, and it is believed by the California Water and Telephone Company will aid materially in clearing up the local water supply which has been soured by gasses resulting from particles of debris and silt accumulating in the San Clemente whenever the water has been low during the past few years.

A survey of Cachagua property values is being conducted by the local real estate firm of Traxler and Prince.

Following the completion of the property appraisal survey in the coming week, geologists will come down to inspect the Cachagua area. C. M. Goldsworthy, manager of the California Water and Telephone Company, announced yesterday. And unless the geologists should discover that the bed-rock abutments are insufficient to hold the dam, there is every reason to suppose, Goldsworthy said, that plans for the second storage dam will then be carried through.

Navy Day, Saturday, October 27, will be observed this year by a visit of the U. S. S. Boxer, a fleet carrier of the Essex class, which will come down from San Francisco on October 26 and drop anchor in Monterey bay. The ship will be open to the sea-going minded public for visits on Saturday and Sunday, and will depart these waters October 28.

THE RAIN

Mrs. Paul Flanders, custodian of the Carmel rain gauge, reports .24 of an inch of rain for the 24 hours ending 8 a. m., October 16.

Fight-Fight-Almost-Between Peter And Corum About Co. Taxes

The Pine Cone reporter may not have been the first, but for about five minutes she was undoubtedly the loudest cryer this week when the pretty little blue-green notices, gaily perforated in red dots, arrived from Mr. Geo. W. Holm (darn him).

The Pine Cone reporter knows it isn't Mr. Holm's fault that county taxes for Carmel people are up this year 36 cents on the dollar, still tax collecting is a morbid profession, not one to endeavor an individual to the general public, and Mr. Holm went into it with his eyes wide open.

The first thing the Pine Cone reporter and about 50 percent of the rest of the Carmel citizens did in their anguish and confusion was to grab the telephone and call up friend Corum Jackson.

"Now what do you want," said Corum ungraciously. "I'm busy." "I'll bet you're busy," said the P. C. R. "What have you done? Raised everybody's assessment—or just mine—you Deputy County Assessor, You!"

"The county assessment rate on Carmel property has not been raised in three years, though I recommended it this year," said Corum banefully. "We'd better collect the taxes while we can, because when the depression comes, we'll have to lower them."

"When do you expect the depression?" demanded the P. C. R., now thoroughly alarmed.

"It's here now," said Corum. The P. C. R. hadn't noticed it, and began to suspect Corum was trying to divert her from taxes.

"If our assessments aren't up why is my tax bill about a third bigger than it was last year. Answer me that."

"Schools—" said Corum, sounding happy for the first time. "The county tax rate is up only about 3 cents. The rest of the increase is for the Carmel Unified School District. And I have nothing to do with the schools."

The P. C. R. knew who did, so leaving Corum to enjoy his depression she called 110.

"City Clerk's office," caroled Peter Mawdsley, "Peter Mawdsley speaking."

"Lookit — Peter — tell Peter Mawdsley, city clerk, to get off the line, I want to talk to Peter Mawdsley, budget controller for the Carmel Unified School District."

"Is it about taxes?" asked Peter, his voice changing. "Because if it is, I'm very busy in a conference with Bill Askew and Charlie Childers, but I have some comparative figures and I'll call you back in half an hour."

The P. C. R., observing to herself that it was odd how busy everybody in authority gets when the subject of taxes is mentioned, composed herself to wait the half hour.

In about three times thirty minutes, Peter Mawdsley came into the P. C. office in person, shook the rain out of his hat, coat, and umbrella and put a piece of paper all over figures on the P. C. R.'s desk. The P. C. R. concentrated her well-known analytical mind on the matter at hand and emerged

● Sporting ● NOTES

PADRES PLAY MENLO TONIGHT

Tonight at 8 p. m. in the Monterey High Stadium the Menlo School and the Carmel Varsity football teams will renew a rivalry started before the war. Menlo has always fielded a team capable of giving the best in the Bay area a good game. They are coached by Chuck Winterburn, formerly assistant to Pop Warner at Stanford and employ a wide-open double wingback offense. The Padres are determined to put together four good quarters in this game, and if they do, they should offer plenty of opposition to the favored Menlo eleven.

Carmel starting lineup: Rich Mulholland, le; Bud Pitman (C), lt; Rod Dewar, lg; Newt Goodrich, c; Art Harber, rg; Rich Moore, rt; Perry Brown, re; Paul Warner, qb; Bob Bell, lh; Roger Byers, rh; Bill Herlihy, fb.

CARMEL VARSITY WINS OVER GONZALES

Coming back in the second half with determination and drive after being maltreated all during the first half, the Carmel Varsity pounded out a 13 to 6 victory over an inspired Gonzales eleven last Friday night. Gonzales stung the Padres in the second quarter and held a 6-0 advantage at the half. Two scat backs, Stevens and Yates for the Warriors, proved too tough for the Carmel tacklers and both scooted for long gains in the Gonzales touchdown drive. Carmel dug in on the four yard line and held the Black and Orange team for 3 downs, but on the 4th down Stevens skirted the Padre left end for six points. The attempted place kick was blocked by a hard charging Carmel forward wall.

In the first half the Padre quarterbacks appeared to be sparring for openings in the Gonzales defense and evidently found them because from the beginning of the second half their offense began to roll and the play took place on the Warrior end of the field for most of the half.

Quick thrusts by Bell, Byers and Herlihy carried the Red and Gray deep into Gonzales territory in the third quarter. In the first few minutes of the 4th quarter Gonzales was forced to punt from their 15 yard line and a host of Carmel linemen swarmed over the kicker and smothered the punt, which gave Carmel the ball on the Gonzales 22 yard line. Herlihy went for nine at left tackle and Bell hit for seven more at the same spot. Byers picked up four big yards over right guard and Bell shot through a big hole at left guard for the touchdown. The conversion was good when Byers cracked over right tackle for the necessary two yards. At this point the conversion diggit looked pretty big as it put the Padres ahead, 7 to 6.

Not content to coast on one touchdown the Padres engineered another touchdown drive late in the fourth quarter. With fast charging linemen smothering the Gonzales backs before they could get to the line of scrimmage, the Carmel eleven forced the Warriors back to their ten yard line where Bud Pitman sliced through and partially blocked an attempted kick. Starting from the 20 yard line it took three plays to hit pay dirt. Herlihy cracked the left side of the line for seven and Byers made the first down through right guard. Byers hit again over right tackle for the TD. The conversion failed this time, but nobody cared very much at this point in the game. Outstanding line play by Bud Pitman, Art Harber, Rod Dewar, and Newt Goodrich served to hold the Warriors in check during the second half, while the speed and tackling ability of Bob Bell saved several breakaway runs by the Gonzales scat backs. Bill Herlihy sparked the team in the second half and provided the punch in the scoring drives.

Paul Warner served notice that he is developing into a good passer by hitting his receivers in 4 out of 5 attempts. Paul is a cool head at the quarterback position and calls plays like a veteran.

Bill Cross and Vic Harber suffered minor injuries in the game but both will be ready for the next league game with King City on November 2.

Starting lineup: Vic Harber, le; Bud Pitman, lt; Rod Dewar, lg; Newt Goodrich, c; Dick Taplin, rg; Rich Moore, rt; Dick Mulholland, re; Bob Bell, lh; Roger Byers (C), rh; Lew McCreery, fb; Paul Warner, qb.

Substitutes who participated: Bob Rissell, Perry Brown, Tom Bates, Jim Snavely, Roland Calder, Art Harber, Curtis Gorham, Bill Herlihy, Bill Hodgson, Bill Cross, Tom Handley, and Bob Barry.

THE PAY OFF

Immediately after the close of the World Series broadcast Tuesday afternoon, Andy Del Monte was seen going in and out of doors up and down Ocean Avenue and Dolores Streets, a pack of one dollar bills in his outstretched hand.

A Pine Cone operative, following him into one of the business establishments, saw him peel off two of the crisp greenbacks, hand them over to a grinning fellow citizen, and be on his way to pay off to the next best guesser.

Andy, and his namesake, Andy Weimann, are two reasons, among many, why Carmel is regarded as different and peculiar. Both are tremendously popular and highly respected members of the community and both are BASEBALL UMPIRES!

LIMITEDS IN HARD EARNED VICTORY

When the Salinas Junior Varsity trotted onto the Carmel turf for their gridiron tussle with the Carmel Limiteds the Carmel boys were about ready to turn in their suits. Salinas appeared to have an advantage of 20 to 25 pound per man, and the Carmel kids were wondering what the Salinas Varsity looked like if the JV's sported so many 190 pounders. In the first few minutes it seemed that the weight advantage would be too much for the Padre Babes as Salinas drove to the Carmel two yard stripe. However, the sturdy little linemen dug in and held their heavier opponents for 4 downs and took possession of the ball. With Garguilo, Weer, and Herlihy carrying, the Padres moved out of danger and kept Salinas bottled up for the rest of the half.

In the second half the Carmel offense started to roll and early in the 4th quarter they were definitely headed for the 6 point stripe. Holmes, Barry, and Handley put together two first downs in a row and quarterback Nelson Byers then pitched to flanker Tom Handley, who in turn, passed far downfield to Mike Monahan who was downed on the Salinas one yard line. Byers pushed over for the score on a quarterback sneak.

Carmel Expresses Its Sense Of Loss In Quiet Ceremonies

Flags stood at half-mast all day on Wednesday, October 16, in honor of General Joseph W. Stilwell, whose death at Letterman Hospital last Saturday shocked and grieved the entire community. Peter Mawdsley, city clerk, wrote a letter to Mrs. Stilwell expressing the sympathy of the people of Carmel on behalf of the city council, sanitary district and school district. Businesses were closed all over the peninsula from 2 to 2:15 in the afternoon, while a minute of silence was observed at both Sunset and Carmel High School, after the playing of taps.

At 2:00, in a simple, dignified ceremony attended by quiet groups of people, Charles Childers, commander of the American Legion here, placed a wreath at the foot of the stone in the Plaza which bears the names of our war-dead. The flag ceremony was in charge of Spiers Ruskell, and the flag was first raised to the top of the mast, then lowered to the ground, and then, to the accompaniment of taps, was raised again to half mast. Colonel Roy Hillyer, retired chaplain who served under General Stilwell on Okinawa after General Buckner's death, gave a short, simple address.

There was hardly a wheel moving on Ocean Avenue during the ceremony, and the whole town was hushed and solemn.

Down at the Point, large crowds of people had gathered in parked cars to await the arrival of the C-47, piloted by Major Emmett J. Thiesen, who had carried the General over the CBI "Hump" more than 50 times during the war, as it bore the ashes of the beloved General out into the Pacific to be scattered over the sea.

At 2:20 in the afternoon, while services were held at the Stilwell home, Llanfair, on the Carmel Point, the plane came into sight, flew low and circled over Cook's

AMERICAN LEGION BASEBALL TEAM

Players met Monday night in the Carmel Legion Hall to organize the new hard ball team. More players are needed, and anyone who is interested in trying out for the Winter League is asked to be at the Carmel High School Sunday, October 20, at 11:00 a. m. for practice. Jack Giles, chairman, may be contacted at Carmel 664-W evenings, or W. W. Dufur, police officer, at Carmel 1679-J. Andy Del Monte is the new manager of the Legion ball team.

Cove at the foot of Twelfth street, and then, after making another complete circle, went straight out to sea where it disappeared into the distant haze.

Colonel Hillyer said in his address at the Plaza, "His ashes will be strewn over the Pacific, which washes all the coasts of the countries where he has served."

Maxwell Carson Peoples Stage With Bible Personages

Last Monday evening, as a part of their contribution to the Famine Relief Fund, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kuster opened The Golden Bough Playhouse to the public, and the Rev. Maxwell Carson, of London, presented a benefit performance of his original mono-drama, entitled Men of Galilee, to a reverently appreciative audience. Mr. Ellis Roberts introduced Mr. Carson, and the three act play, which portrays the public reaction to Jesus during the days before and immediately following the Crucifixion, was given almost entirely without properties. Mr. Carson enacting all the roles. The changing lighting effects were his only assistance, and his characterization both in dialogue and change of voice peopled the stage with many of the well known personages of the New Testament.

World Famous Choir To Sing In Grove

Wings Over Jordan, considered the world's greatest Negro choir, will be heard in concert at the Pacific Grove High School auditorium on Thursday, October 24, presented under the auspices of the Hays C. M. E. Church of Monterey.

The choir of twenty blended voices was organized in Cleveland by Rev. Glynn T. Settle, who feels that music is the greatest power in building goodwill and understanding between people of different creeds and races.

His faith in music to create brotherhood has been amply demonstrated not only on the CBS coast-to-coast broadcasts Wings Over Jordan has been doing for the past seven years, but also in Europe where civilians as well as GIs had an opportunity to hear the choir.

Tickets are on sale at Lial's Music Shop and at Ella's Southern Kitchen in Carmel.

Girl Scouts—Brownies—Get Going

THIRD AND FOURTH GRADE BROWNIES

Mrs. Crosby Owens and Mrs. Robert Emery, leaders of the Third and Fourth Grade Brownies, held an organization meeting at the Girl Scout House on Tuesday at 3:15, at which time the following third grade members participated in the discussion of plans for the coming season:

Irene Artimieff, Marcia Barnes, Gretchen Baumgartner, Susan Castagna, Frances Castrejon, Sherian Emery, Toni Hamilton, Susan Lawrence, Carol Lewis, Jyll Myer, Cathy Owens, Roberta Vallon, Renee Wurtzmann, Gail McHarry, and Bonnie Wager.

It was voted that the project on which the troop's efforts will be expended this year will consist of the arranging of puppets representing the peoples of various nations, and the staging of plays by means of these puppets. The Brownies will study dramatic work by this means.

Four fourth graders are at present meeting with this troop, Helaine Daggy, Sondra Sowell, Phyllis Burnett and Priscilla Clark, but these girls are planning to start a troop of their own as soon as they obtain four additional members from the class which leaves school at 3:30. Any applicants should contact Mrs. Owens or Mrs. Emery as soon as possible.

A set of keys to the Girl Scout House seems to be wandering about in some unknown pocket. Will you make a search of your wardrobe and return the keys if you find them?

INTERMEDIATE GIRL SCOUTS

Last Friday afternoon, at 3:45, Troop 10 of the Intermediate Girl Scouts met at the Girl Scout House and elected officers as follows: President, Julie Maschek; secretary, Penny Bestor; treasurer, Nancie Veit. The members voting at this election were:

Patty Finley, Alice Ferrante, Norma Holder, Karen von Meier, Lynn Campbell, Pat Chedester, Mary Adams, Ruth Harrington, Idella Graft, Melinda Scheffer, Pat Westcott, Carolyn Fraetessa, Christine Conley, Catherine Triplett, Gretchen Herron, and Barbara Keller.

The leaders of this troop are Mrs. Betty Miller and Mrs. Barbara Freeman, and regular meetings will be held every Friday at 3:45.

SECOND GRADE BROWNIES

Every Friday afternoon at 2:15

Elect
WILL ROGERS JR.
UNITED STATES SENATOR

the Second Grade Brownies plan to meet in the Girl Scout House under the leadership of Mrs. George Bestor and Mrs. Eugene Scheffer. Those already elected to membership in this troop are:

Kay McPhail, Elizabeth Snite, Dianne Weaver, Patsy Dodd, Suzanne Bestor, Mary Anne Knox, and Margo Sloane.

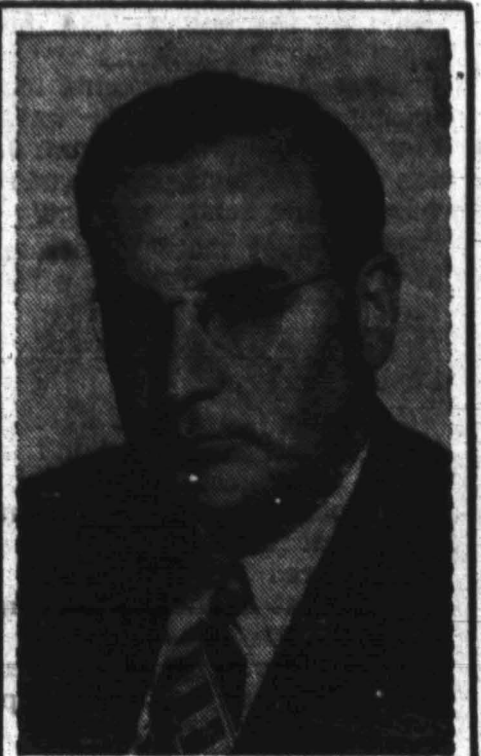

There are still a few openings for membership and any second graders desiring to join should ask their parents to contact Mrs. Bestor or Mrs. Scheffer before next Friday.

League Public Measures Meeting In Monterey Wed.

A public meeting for explaining the seventeen measures on the ballot has been arranged by the Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters for next Wednesday noon, October 23, to be held at the Memory Garden in Monterey. Those who attend will bring their lunches and coffee will be served by the League. The speaking will begin about 12:30, in order that business people who may wish may have the benefit of the information on the acts which come before the voters on November 5. Arrangements will be made to hold the meeting in some nearly sheltered place in case the weather is unfavorable.

Speaker for the day is Mrs. Douglas Carter of Berkeley, state vice-chairman of elections in the League, who has long been active in the organization in the east and in California. Mrs. Douglas lived in Carmel for several years, and her mother, Mrs. Agnes C. Montgomery, and sisters, the Misses Elizabeth and Eleanor Montgomery, are long-time residents of the village. Mrs. Carter, who recently served as president of the Berkeley League, has put a good deal of study upon the proposed laws.

Fight—Fight—Almost —Between Peter And Corum About Co. Taxes

wide-eyed.

"But Peter, it says here that the total increase in county taxes is 36 cents on the dollar. The breakdown shows 18 cents for the county in general and 18 cents for the Carmel Unified School District. That's half and half. Corum Jackson said that most of the increase was for the school district."

"Did he say that? I'll punch him in the nose," cried Peter, with gestures.

"Oh, how wonderful, Peter. May I quote you?"

"You may not," said Peter hastily. "Corum probably didn't know about the bonds. The school district would have had a 26 cent increase but for two bond issues that were retired last year."

And what is the 18 cents more on the dollar going for in the school district? "Teachers' salary increments and commodity price increases," says Peter, and he adds "It should be pointed out that because assessed valuations have not grown along with the increase in costs of operation, school boards have no escape from increased tax rates if they make adequate and proper provision for the schools' needs and efficient operation."

The Pine Cone Reporter didn't get hold of the county clerk, but she suspected his remarks would be pretty much in the same tenor. Here are Peter's figures:

Memorandum on County tax rate for Carmel-Inside, and comparison with previous year:

County rate 1.15%, plus county library rate .02%, total of 1.18 for 1945-46; for 1946-1947, 1.36, an increase of .18.

Unified School District 1.13 for 1945-46; 1.38 for 1946-47, an increase of .25.

School Bonds, Sunset No. 1 for 1945-46 .03; none in 1946-47, a decrease of .03.

School bonds, Sunset No. 3, for 1945-46 .05; none in 1946-47, a decrease of .05.

High School bonds for 1945-46 .08; .09 in 1946-47, an increase of .01.

High School bonds for 1945-46 .06; for 1946-47 .06, the same.

Memo: School total for 1945-46 was 1.35; for 1946-47 $1.53, an increase of .18.

Junior college tax for 1945-46 was .06; 1946-47 .07, increase of .01.

Just about everything that is important to Carmel people—the attractiveness of their physical surroundings.

And this is about all for this first ordinance. It confines the powers of the planning commission to producing plans, leaving executive and judicial powers still in the hands of the city council. However, there are several ordinances coming up for the November meeting designed to extend the power of the planning commission, and these, to our way of thinking are a "damned sight more important," if we may paraphrase Billy Hudson.—W. women from Europe to study in American universities in order to aid in rehabilitating education in their own countries, where institutions of college grade were largely destroyed by the German armies. Announcement of this achievement of the Peninsula A. A. U. W. was made at the Northern California Workshop and Board meeting held at Mills College last Saturday, which Miss Harriet Baker of Pacific Grove, last year's president of the association, attended. Miss Baker is now a member of the State Fellowship Committee, and as such she was asked to tell the meeting "how we did it." "It was good to have recognition of Monterey's achievement," Miss Baker commented.

The plan for emergency international fellowships of $1,500 was initiated by the national A. A. U. W. in May, 1945, and the local committee, headed by Miss Effa Spencer, set to work immediately, although no meetings of the association are held during the summer. When the first meeting in the fall of 1945 was held, more than the desired $500 Study Grant (one-third of a fellowship) was in hand. Last May a gift of $250 brought the amount to half a fellowship, although the local branch rates as rather small in size compared with the majority of sister organizations in the country. It is the plan of the national A. A. U. W. to make the raising of additional study grants a major part of this year's program, as the emergency in Europe continues.

Bjoerling Sings Here Tonight At Sunset Auditorium

Jussi Bjoerling, famous Swedish singer, opens the Carmel Music Society's concert series tonight with a program which will permit his audience to enjoy and to judge a voice now believed to be the finest tenor since Caruso's. Its dramatic quality and great range, combined with a velvety timber, enchant his listeners. Bjoerling has sung in La Boheme and Il Trovatore this week in San Francisco, and will return to the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York in January.

His program:

Aria, Dalla sua pace, from Don Giovanni, Mozart; Verborgenhheit, Wolf; Es muss ein Wunderbares sein, Liszt; Cacilie, Strauss.

Aria, Ah, fuyez, douce image, from Manon, Massenet;

Cavatina from Faust, Gounod. Varen, Spring, Grieg; Jungfru under lind (The Maiden under the Linden Tree), Peterson-Berger; Trollsjon, The Enchanted Lake, Soderman.

Ah, Love, but a day, Beach; Berceuse (from Jocelyn), Godard; O, Divine Redeemer, Gounod.

Aria from Andrea Chenier, Giordano.

Carmel Reaches $11,799 Mark For Community Chest

Carmel has contributed $11,799.70 to the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest drive, according to figures furnished by Mrs. Elizabeth Cass, Carmel chairman, late this week.

The quota for the Peninsula is $44,000, and it is expected that Carmel will contribute $13,200 or more before the drive is completed.

Latest group to achieve 100 percent participation, Mrs. Cass announced, is the Carmel Sunset School faculty.

"If Eve Had Not Had The Courage, We Might Still Be Tenders Of Herbs In Some Garden Of Eden"

The subject for discussion by Dr. E. O. Sisson in the Forum lecture this week was entitled, The Image of God, a phrase taken from Genesis. A rather unusual interpretation was given of this item in the Genesis record, to the effect that the writer of these astounding words was really uttering the fundamental human aspiration and ambition to be great; it is really man's own deep conviction in his own promise and potency that makes him see himself as "the image of God." It must be understood, said the speaker, that we are here talking of history, of what actually happened in man's career, of his constantly making these images of God and being devoted to them. "This is no question of theology or even metaphysics; it does not even raise the question of the existence of God himself. But when we look candidly at the record, we must admit that God is in history, beyond any question; always, in every age and every culture, men have framed their images of their gods, and been devoted to them."

Nor have the images always been beautiful and good, Dr. Sisson pointed out, for they were of necessity drawn from man's own nature and behavior; his gods had his features, his organs, his ways and manners; his virtues, and alas, his vices too. His gods were sometimes wise, strong, loving; but sometimes cruel, stupid, hateful. Yet on the whole, men put into their images of God the best of their own natures and ways of life. Thus, the gods became the bright images of what men aspired to and doubtless the images often spurred men to greater energy in pursuing their aims and ideals.

Of unique interest in this connection is the story of the temptation and the fall, and the consequent banishment from Eden. For the tempter promised not only knowledge and life, but dominion. Curiously enough, elsewhere in the story God proposes that man shall have dominion. Besides, the forbidden tree had been identified as the tree of knowledge of good and evil, and even the tree of life. So when we look more closely at the case our first parents, far from failing, started on the steep but splendid path to knowledge, life, and dominion, the speaker said. One of the oddities of the story is that the man in the case, losing courage in the crisis, threw the credit for the move upon the woman, and so lost for his own sex the glory of having set the race upon its upward road. If Eve had not had courage and energy to seize the opportunity, we might still be mere tenders of herbs in some secluded Garden of Eden.

In this sense, God is the vision man has of his own nature and destiny. Hence this chapter might be called Man's Limitless Ambition. Or we might say that the first article in the creed of the human race is that they are created in the image of God. It is this drive, this ceaseless aspiration to something beyond, something better, more to be desired, that has brought man the long road from his meager and humble beginnings to become the summit of creation.

Now we ask just what we may learn of man by looking at the images he has made of God. One of the most striking facts here is that God is usually declared to be perfect in the three great aspects of realms of human nature—he is all-wise, all-powerful, and all-good. It is true that even the theologians themselves have not been able to reconcile these qualities of God with the actual facts of the world and even of human life and fate; there is too much pain, misery, wickedness, injustice and horror in the world. Still the mass of men, if they think of God at all, cling to the doctrine that He is actually perfect in all these faculties. For us, the main thing is that man is himself in love with knowledge, with power; is he in love also with good? This is perhaps the supreme question which will determine his fate and destiny in the final decision.

The next lecture, on Wednesday, October 23, will follow up the discussion of these three great features in the image of God and in the character and behavior of man.

Warren E. Burton

Warren E. Burton, a resident of Carmel since 1931, passed away in the early hours of October 11 at the local hospital. The family home has been at Lincoln and Tenth, with residence also in Carmel Valley. He was born July 18, 1872, in New York state, but spent the first forty years of his life in Wisconsin in business there.

University of Wisconsin at Madison was his alma mater and at the Houghton School of Mines he took up technical study of mining, which business he was in for more than fifteen years in Colorado.

Retiring in 1930, he came to the West Coast with his wife, Helena Bingham Burton, and her sister, Amy C. Bingham. The three travelers found Carmel to be the end of the quest for an ideal place in which to rest. Part of this rest was in a change in activity and he became an enthusiastic golfer. At the age of 66 he was named Member 52 in the Hole-In-One-Club of America, his honoring medal bearing the date of May 3, 1938, Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

On March 15, 1940, he was certified as a member of the Golden Legion of Phi Delta Theta by Wisconsin Chapter, which is composed of Phis of fifty years or more.

He suffered a fractured hip on March 4 in a collapse from vertigo in the garden of his home. The injury was not at once discovered and was not operated on until September 30. Bronchial pneumonia developed and he passed away while in a state of coma, in the early morning hours.

Brief services were held at Paul's Chapel, with Rev. A. C. Clay reading the services, including the Masonic ritual; Edward C. Hopkins was at the organ playing Mr. Burton's favorite music, Tchaikovsky's Andante Cantabile. He loved the sweet melodious themes. There was a wealth of flowers from sympathetic friends.

His ashes will repose in the Columbarium in Cementerio El Encinal in Monterey.

Relatives in the east are a son, John, and a daughter, Margaret, by a former marriage, with their respective families; a sister, Mrs. E. D. Dennison of Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, and a brother, Kenneth, now in Canada; two other sisters of Mrs. Burton, residing in Carmel Valley, Mrs. Hayden Randall and Mrs. C. F. Herliger.

Mary McNamara

Mary Eileen McNamara fell from a fifth story hotel window in Long Beach, New York, last Thursday night, and her death at Long Beach Hospital on Sunday at midnight was a shock to her many friends in Carmel. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald P. McNamara of Hollister, flew east but she never regained consciousness.

Miss McNamara was educated at Dominican Convent in San Rafael and at Stanford University. She was head of the commercial department at Carmel High School for the year '43-44, where she was one of the most popular teachers. Her gaiety, wit, and charm endeared her to students and faculty, and it is difficult for her friends to realize that she will not come again to Carmel, as she has in the past, to renew friendships here.

She left Carmel to take a position as secretary to the head of Stanford Hospital, but she was always seeking wider interests, and when the UNCIO met in San Francisco she served with the Chinese delegation, where she was so well liked that she was sent to Washington, where she worked with the Chinese UNRRA.

At the time of the fatal accident she was secretary to Hugh Williams in the Radio division of the United Nations.

Funeral services will be held in Hollister Monday morning at 10 at the Grunagle Chapel and at 10:30 at the Church of the Sacred Heart.

Mr. C. H. Stocking of San Jose, celebrated rose grower, will speak at the Garden Section of the Carmel Woman's Club on Friday, October 18, at 2 o'clock at Girls' Scout House.

His subject will be How to Grow Better Roses in Carmel. Knowing that many nonmembers will wish to hear this noted specialist, the committee decided to have the meeting open to the public.

Nonmembers will be admitted for a small fee; members by membership card.

Frank Wickman

Frank Wickman, 62-year-old musician, plunged 90 feet to his death early Monday morning from Wild Cat Bridge near his home in the Carmel Highlands.

He went out for a walk at 8 o'clock and at 8:15 John Eaton, deputy sheriff of the Carmel Highlands, noticed his sweater on the railing of Wild Cat Bridge. At 11 o'clock, Frank Wickman's sister, Mrs. Jenny Montgomery, concerned over her brother's failure to return from his walk, called Eaton, who then went back to the bridge and discovered the body. Deputy Coroner T. A. Dorney assisted Mr. Eaton in recovering the body.

Known all over the world in musical circles for his work in evolving a new method of piano instruction, Wickman was considered by many to be the finest piano teacher in the United States. He had studied abroad, in Germany and Switzerland, as well as in the United States, and commenced his musical studies in San Francisco when he was a boy. He was a gifted pianist, although he never played in concert, and his home in the Carmel Highlands has always been a center for music lovers. According to his best friends, he devoted his whole life to music.

He is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Jennie Montgomery of the Carmel Highlands, Mrs. Edith Wayne of San Francisco, Mrs. Amy Brann of Coos Bay, Oregon, and Mrs. Gunihile Chase of Spokane, Washington.

Services were held on Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the T. A. Dorney Funeral Home with Dr. James Crowther officiating. Cremation followed.

THE RIVER

by Rumer Godden

This is a story told with the sane humor and penetrating wisdom of Rumer Godden's BLACK NARCISSUS and TAKE THREE TENSES, and also with the sensitive understanding and delicate probing of THUS FAR AND NO FURTHER. It is a story set in India, as was BREAKFAST WITH THE NIKOLIDES, but, except for the actual circumstances of life in India, it could have happened in any family, living in any house by a river. It is not a long story, but in it there are experiences as deep as the human heart can take. 2.00

THE ICEMAN COMETH

by Eugene O'Neill

The simultaneous production and publication of the first play from the pen of Eugene O'Neill in twelve years is an event of unique importance to the theatrical and literary worlds. It marks the return to creative activity, after a long illness, of America's foremost dramatist. Brooks Atkinson, eminent drama critic for the New York Times says flatly that "Mr. O'Neill has written one of his best plays." 2.75

THE IDOLS OF THE CAVE

by Frederic Prokosch

Frederic Prokosch's latest novel is a story of two interwoven love affairs against a fascinating background of contemporary New York society. Here Mr. Prokosch abandons the poetic, impressionistic manner of his earlier novels and presents a brilliant, witty, and sharply realistic novel, in which the plot moves powerfully from the first page to the last. 2.75

DEAR EDITOR:

After having spent over five years of my life in the Armed Forces of the United States during World War II, in an effort to destroy dictatorships and uphold Democracy, I returned to civilian life with the feeling of a job well done. Then I spent over $1,200, a lot of time and effort in a supposedly free and democratic election, trying to be the peoples' choice for Sheriff of Monterey County. Now I find all this was evidently a farce or humbug, the County Supervisors appoint the man of their choice and now we are told to "retain" him as Sheriff because he is already in office. A man that a majority of the people did not vote for—I want my money back.

Furthermore, I served my country in the Armed Forces during war, even though I had a wife, five children, and a key job in an essential industry. As a war veteran, I protest the misleading advertising this appointed Sheriff uses, by claiming "five years' army service" at this time, yet he did not serve during either war.

NICHOLAS R. GEE,
1468 Second Avenue,
Salinas, Calif.

Dear Nick:

Aren't you getting over-exercised about the state of democracy in Monterey county. I don't think the supervisors' appointing a man to serve as sheriff until election time, nor their recommending him to the voters—if they have done so—is going to totter liberty from her throne. I don't think the voters pay any attention whatsoever to what the supervisors recommend.

Here in Carmel we never have a city election without the incumbent city councilmen nominating their own candidates, and urging the people to vote for them in most vigorous terms, and the people go right ahead and vote for whom ever they please.—W. C.

Editor,
Carmel Pine Cone,
Carmel, California.
DEAR SIR:

In your issue of the Carmel Pine Cone-Cymbal of Friday, October 11, you state that Jeff Davis was the campaign manager of George Outland in the recent primary in June.

Mr. Davis was the paid collector of funds for the County Central Committee, and he was not re-employed for the elections. His change of party came after it was decided to do without his services. In no sense was Mr. Davis Mr. Outland's campaign manager. Mr. Chase Holaday, a volunteer, of Salinas, was the campaign manager for the primaries for the Democratic Central Committee.

We do not challenge Mr. Davis' right to change parties. We merely mention the order of events for the record.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN F. DOUGHERTY,
Chairman.

Sorry: The man said he was.—
The Editor.

Private Her shall McPhillips, step-son of the late Wm. McPhillips of Carmel, passed away on October 11 at the Birmingham Veterans' Hospital, Van Nuys, California, after being a patient there for the last nine months. His mother, Mrs. Wm. McPhillips of Carmel, was at his bedside at the time of his death.

After cremation, his ashes were interred in Sawtelle Veterans' cemetery, where his funeral occurred on October 15 with full military honors.

He was born at San Mateo, California, on March 12, 1913; attended school in Carmel, enlisted in the Army in 1940 and was discharged the following year with the rank of sergeant. Drafted in 1942, he was attached to the 40th Division Engineers of the 115th Infantry, and after training spent three years overseas, chiefly in the South Pacific. He was hospitalized on his return at the end of 1945.

His honorable citations include, American Defense Ribbon, Asiatic Pacific Theater Ribbon with two stars, Philippine Liberation Ribbon with one star, Good Conduct Medal, American Theater Ribbon, Victory Ribbon WW No. 2 with six overseas bars and one service stripe.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Wm. McPhillips of Carmel, and a half-sister, Muriel, also a local resident.

Only By Compromise Can Peace Be Achieved, Dr. Kerner Tells Forum

By L. LUCILE TURNER

If the three great powers now dickering over the terms of peace cannot reach a mutually acceptable solution to the world problems, then there can be only an armed truce, and the United Nations will fail in its purpose, Dr. Robert J. Kerner told his audience at the Monterey adult forum on Monday evening. The lecture was sponsored jointly by the League of Women Voters and the Business and Professional Women's Club, but the attendance should have been much greater for so important a subject discussed as it was in a very illuminating manner. Dr. Kerner believes a solution can be found if Americans will keep their feet on the ground, knowing what the world is, and be willing to accept reasonable compromises with other points of view.

The situation, according to the speaker, needs to be widely discussed in order that the people may know and understand all phases of the problem, for the final decision of our government will be based on the opinion of the people. We are a vociferous people, while Russians are a silent people, but neither country wants war, and a solution therefore should be possible. Dr. Kerner believes that the turning point in the differences has been passed, and that the chief threat now is of a dangerous irritation developing between the two countries. Joseph Stalin's remarks are "a high sign to all Communists" that the disagreements are really not serious, and Vishinski's comments have reinforced the point.

The official discussions, however, have been too bitter; the countries' representatives "fought like tigers and called names" instead of maintaining a dignity desirable in international contacts. Now that the "cuss words and strong talk" have exhausted the possibilities of recrimination the air should clear and better understanding prevail. Dr. Kerner brought chuckles from his audience when he humorously called up the time-honored expressions of political debate—honorable opponent, and gentleman of the opposition—but he insisted that the discussions between representatives of great powers should be conducted on a higher level than has been the case recently. His sense of humor in pointing out the differences of opinion subtly suggested that agreement was far from impossible.

As to why there will be no immediate war, he said that the atomic bomb is the most terrific instrument of destruction ever devised, but it has boomerang possibilities, as serious for the user as for the victim, so that there can be no real victory from it. While the United States has this weapon now, the great scientific skill of other countries will soon put it in their hands and our initial advantage will lessen. No large country can be knocked out by the bomb, but the destruction from its use would be terrible and the loss to the attacker from counter measures would reduce the advantage gained. Russia, he insisted, does not think we will use the bomb, but she does think that our international relations are based on the bomb, but this is not the case.

The nations have come to a deadlock without ever discussing the fundamental problem of the peace. The fundamental problem in Germany, Japan, China, and their relations to other countries. The great powers each fear that another power will use Germany, Japan, or China for individual advantage. Russia distrusts the U. S. and its purposes in Germany and the Orient; Britain and America fear Russia and its designs in these countries, yet the three have spent their time in conference discussing Trieste, Iran, or other minor matters. While the great powers disagree, Germany has a chance to win. When the German and kindred questions are solved, all the minor differences will be settled easily. Who is going to use Germany (or Japan or China) against whom? That is the crux of the disagreement. If the three powers cannot come to an agreement, then only an armed truce is possible, that is the only alternative.

Americans, Dr. Kerner urged, "should sharpen our minds" to actual world conditions, and consider other nations' point of view. For more than a century we have had our Monroe Doctrine; England has had her lifeline. What about a lifeline for Russia? If we insist on a sphere of influence, what about other nations also having spheres? We must learn to call a spade a spade, even if we have it. If we object to Russian power in the Balkans and the Near East, how do Russians feel about our plan for bases on Guam, Okinawa, Iceland, the Azores? And when we criticize British domination of India, they question our control of Puerto Rico or Panama (Theodore Roosevelt said, "I took it"). Each nation is concerned about its security, and that generates a certain rivalry.

The United States has built up a high standard of living, and naturally desires to maintain that standard. We have a huge industrial machine that we don't want to abandon, and the purpose is to keep the machine going to capacity. How? By capturing world trade; if we do not there will be another depression. But who has a right to a monopoly of world trade? We can maintain our own standard of living only by helping raise the standard in the rest of the world, extending credit. Moreover, other nations are looking at world trade: "If you have a giant cannon cracker in your hand," said Dr. Kerner, "it's all right, but you must know it's a giant cannon cracker."

We must recognize each nation's fear for security and realize the broad problem. We must discuss differences in a rational way and reach agreement; this is not appeasement. Unless the three great powers reach agreement, Germany will come back in the old way. If the big problems are met the little ones will no longer trouble. A short question period followed Dr. Kerner's lecture.

L. H. Sortais, principal of Monterey adult school, conducted the meeting, and Mrs. Thor Hellum, a vice-president of the Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters, introduced the speaker. Mrs. Harriet Coombs, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, also had a place on the rostrum.

Board Looks Over Plans For Students' Union At High School

Carmel Unified School District Board has received preliminary plans from school architects Ernest J. Kump Co. for a students' union to be built on the high school grounds east of the boys' gymnasium.

The union, as designed by Kump, is a one-story building, in the same architectural design as the rest of the high school buildings. Its floor plan provides for reading room, social room, food preparation room with canteen, and an office. A basement rifle range is provided. Tied in with the building is an outdoor swimming pool, with dressing rooms, a sun bathing patio, and a roofed patio with barbecue pit.

The architects have given no estimate of the cost of construction, since it is impossible to estimate future prices, and out of the question to build such a unit at the present time.

However, the plans have been furnished so that the school authorities, students, and citizens can study them. Superintendent Leo Harris asks the townspeople especially to offer suggestions for improvements.

As soon as black and white sketches are available, The Pine Cone will run them.

General Stilwell

While listening to the Army-Michigan football game Saturday a pause occurred in the play of the game and a dreaded announcement that General Stilwell has just passed away struck us amidstships. It had been feared since reports had been issued daily of his grave condition but all of us were hoping against hope, and how hard it was for us to believe. It just didn't seem true that General Joe had been taken away and that he would no longer be a frequent visitor here at his home in Carmel.

Not because he was a four-star General in our army is General Stilwell going to be remembered. He will be remembered many a day because of the humanity of the man, the understanding of those who might not have had the opportunity he had, and the concern of the men who were associated with him, regardless of their "rank." He was one man who wore his stars gracefully and with ease, when you could catch him with them on.

Never has another man with an army career been so well thought of by the men he commanded as General Stilwell. His ability to mix with all men will put him in the history books as one of our greatest military leaders with a career which included hardships while he was leading American and Chinese troops in Burma, of which none of us will ever get the full details, because the General didn't spend time telling about what he had done. He was more interested in telling about what his boys had done, and no one could be prouder of them than he was.

Words can't tell the greatness of this man. A few personal incidents show his outlook on life, and why he lived the simple life which endeared him to all.

After returning from China he became commanding general of the Army Ground Forces. In a short while news was received at Fort Ord that General Stilwell was going to make a visit to the installation at Fort Ord for an inspection. We were all spick and span, buckles shined and shoes to a pitch where you could shave by looking into them.

The day arrives. General Joe arrives. We are all shined up. He shows up in a combat jacket and paratroop boots. We are all ready for him to look us over. Not on your life. He orders that the top of a jeep be taken down (which was in violation of all the depot rules), climbs in and goes out to the range to see what the replacements getting ready for combat in the Pacific were doing.

Out to the training field the jeep goes with General Joe and the commanding officer of the depot. They arrive and out they jump, General Joe dressed for the occasion. They listen to instructions on the problem to be pulled by the infantrymen, and soon a platoon pushes off. Another platoon pushes off. Here's where the vinegar comes in. "Vinegar Joe" could stand it no longer. When the next platoon started off he turned around to the commanding officer of the depot with the command: "Come on Bennie, let's go with them." They followed the problem until it was completed through the brush and sand of the Fort Ord reservation.

Men going through the depot were completely thrilled when the General stopped to have a chat with them. He wasn't looking for dirty shoes or a soiled buckle. He wanted to know how the men felt, mentally and physically, and all of them received an uplift in spirits after one of his frequent conversations.

A man in an old sweater was walking on the Carmel streets. My son was coming home from high school. It was nearly dusk. The man in the old sweater, just strolling around, said, "Howdy, son." My kid, hurrying to get home, with food on the brain, looked up and said "Hiya." He recognized the General after they had passed. The kid came home and said to me that had he noticed who it was in time he would have shown more deference. He was immediately informed that the General would rather have him say Hiya than all the Sirs in the world. The General was that way.

Pictures of the General on the beach at Carmel with his pal, Gary, romping along in the sand. GIs the world over saw those pictures and said there is a great guy. He was a great guy to the GI, and he had their welfare at heart all the time.

The world has lost a great leader, the GIs have lost a grand friend, Carmel has lost its most illustrious citizen. We all feel his passing. Not since the passing of President Roosevelt has anything shocked so great a number of people.

Judge Dudley Kinsell, who dropped in to ask if I had heard of the General's death, summed it up in a few words: "The General was blunt, a man of few words, but he was kind, we have lost a wonderful citizen."—Curly Wettengel.

In fact, most everything you bought for $1.00 in 1939 ... now costs you $1.35, $1.40 or more. ## The Hound Of The Basketquills

BY I. WATCHEM, M. D.

(Ed's note: I Watchem, M. D., is Peter Lyon, Carmel High School freshman. The following story was written as an assignment in Mrs. Mariquita Brey's English class. If this is a sample of the sort of copy English teachers are getting these days, we'd like to trade off with one of them for a while.)

Before I begin to relate to you, dear reader, the terrible murder and mystery connected with this famous case, the Hound of the Basketquills, I shall go back three years to Friday, February 13, 1897. On that indeed unlucky day, the following article was published in the Milkbone Gazette section of the London Times:

"Friday, February 13, 1897. The whole dog population of London was shocked and grieved to hear today of the disappearance and perhaps the death of Miss Princess Van Sniffie, champion Pekingese of the London area. Her residence, at 243 Charlington drive, where she lived with an old lady Human, has been thoroughly investigated, but no clue to the nature of the disappearance, or the whereabouts of Miss Van Sniffie has been discovered," said Inspector Igo Woof of Scottie Yard. He added that the whole force was in on the case and it should be cleared up quite soon. We will bring you the latest developments in this unfortunate case just as we receive them."

That was how I-naw Bones, the great detective, and I found the case as we drove up to 243 in our four-wheel pawsome.

Bones got out and began to examine carefully everything about the place in his expert way. After everything had been minutely examined to his satisfaction we went inside.

Inspector Woof met us at the door and greeted Bones warmly.

I was indeed glad to get into the house, for it was a typical London day outside, wet and foggy. The room we entered was large and comfortable, with many old prints of champion Pekingese dogs.

"I say Woof," said Bones, "please tell us all the details of the pupknaping."

"Well," said Woof, "she disappeared about seven-thirty this morning, or so says the Human owner. The pane—the one you see to the left—was broken, and the window opened in that manner. She was evidently carried off through the window, for there were paw marks on the rug as if there had been a slight struggle. The culprit had evidently been eating at the 'Cafe au Hambuerqua,' for the smell of hamburger was rather strong about the place! That seems not unlikely, for that cafe is the hang-out of many of the bums of London. We went there and the dog in charge told us of a dog that had eaten there a little while before the pupknap."

"I sniffed the dish he had been using, and the scent corresponded exactly with the scent he had left at the house. Oh, by the way, do you take a little Gro-pup meal with your Fibo?"

"No thank you," replied Bones. "Will you please pass the Charcoal Biscuits?" said I.

"Yes, yes, here they are," said Bones in an irritated tone. "Please continue, Inspector."

"Well, there isn't much more to tell, except that there was a strong Human scent about the place."

"Hum," mumbled Bones, "I see I shall have to think this matter and then..."

Two hours later found us trotting down the street in the wet and cold. I could not conceive what the dog catcher had to do with Miss Van Sniffie, but I went along anyway. Ah, dear reader, it was indeed eerie out there in the wet, with the wind sighing and whimpering through the trees!

We were armed with a rifle mounted on a set of wheels, and this Bones was now pushing up the walk of 247. "I arrest you for the pupknaping of Miss Princess Van Sniffie, and for impersonating a Human, and imprisoning innocent dogs thereby!" cried Woof.

The Dog saw that he was trapped and made no fuss. Bones slipped the paw-cuffs on and we had him. We then entered the house and began the search for Miss Van Sniffie. We found her at last in a closet, and set her free.

The case appeared the next day in an article in the paper, and of course, Woof got all the credit.

When you come to think of it, the friendly confidence people have in Greyhound service is rather an extraordinary thing.

Most experienced travelers have come to look on Greyhound as much more than just another bus line. They know it as a warm, very human, very American transportation service made up of many extra things that make a big difference to the fellow doing the traveling.

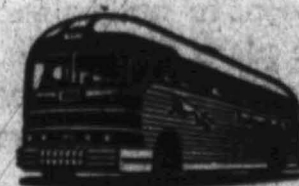

The fact is that people like Greyhound because Greyhound likes people. The very heart of Greyhound service is the cheerful, personal interest Greyhound folks take in their passengers.

Greyhound remembers always that its job is to carry people... not mail, not freight, but people. That's why careful consideration for the welfare of every passenger is the basis of Greyhound policy.

Today, a mother and child, an elderly person, or people who have never traveled before can enter a Greyhound depot and be sure of getting safely, pleasantly to their destinations... cheerfully cared for all the way by Greyhound.

Have You Read . . . ?

BY L. A. WILLIAMS

In a certain Old Book there is recorded the statement that "Where there is no vision, the people perish." The import is, of course, that it is well for all peoples to have young men who see visions and old men who dream dreams. The fabric of which visions and dreams are made is usually diaphanous and fleeting, the organization of which is loose and illogical. Out of these visions and dreams there may result something which properly organized and executed proves of lasting benefit to mankind.

In the book High Schools for Tomorrow, the author, (Dan Stiles) George C. Haig, offers a dream high school. To some, the school described will certainly appear to be a nightmare. To others it will seem largely pure imagination. Still others will see in it only wishful thinking. Few will believe that the totality of such a high school as is envisioned can ever become real in practice. The high lights of this Utopian secondary school can be found on pages two and three of the book.

As in all dreams, so in this one, some key facts of reality are missing and the close-knit logic of conscious thinking is sometimes lacking. For example the history of the high school is treated in the space of about two pages but the single basic reference used deals only with secondary schools in New England. As a result, much that was happening to the high schools in other parts of the nation is not recorded, and the author's imagery is distorted.

Again, at several points the claim is made that the present high school is sterile, static, and divorced from the life of today because it lacks any objectives. So, for the dream school the objectives are set up as: "Education for citizenship . . . education for a career . . . education for family living . . . education for character . . . education for enjoyment." (cf. pp. 24-27.) These sound strangely like four of the seven objectives set up by the Commission on Reorganization of Secondary Education in 1918, and which have ever since been the guide for well-trained teachers in high schools. Has the man ever heard of or read about the Cardinal Principles of Education?

The author is pleading for a program of so-called "general education." The case for general education has been forcibly and authoritatively presented in the recent past by individuals and by committees. These men and committees plead a strong case for such a program because they depended upon careful observation, long experience and thorough investigation. The author admits, and internal evidence confirms him, that his observation has been casual and extensive (a thousand high schools), his experience limited, and his research confined to the reading of secondary sources. Everything that the author has done in this book has been done better, more fairly, more thoroughly and more judiciously in other publications. When the publishers were considering this manuscript they might well, in the light of the paper shortage, have asked the author: "Is this book necessary?"

That the public high school now falls far short of adapting traditional schooling at the secondary level to the demands of mid-twentieth century life is a truism. That the causes for such dereliction are those stated by the author cannot be granted. That progress is being made toward more successfully meeting the life needs of adolescents is as sure as the taxes which support the school. That more progress is on the way is clearly evident in well-balanced, feasible, step-by-step future plans being built up by the hundreds of boards and school authorities all over the nation. Let the author take courage! The sons of Gideon are on the march!

SPECKLENECK

*All day a trout will fin the brook,
His lazy tail maintain one pool;
He is sharp critic of my hook
And no fly-tyer's scaly fool.
So I must deviate my cast
To follow where his darting goes
But why he takes the lure at last
Is logic that he only knows.*

—J. S. MOODY.

LETTER FROM LONDON

*Yes, when you do come over
You will find
Much of old London standing,
Though somewhat battle-stained.
Of course there still will be
Acres of open space
Where once were shops, and churches lifting spires.
Here, low brick walls
Surround the deep sad hollows
To stay your slipping feet.
But even these
Are bright with wild flowers now,
Whose driven seeds were blown from who-knows-where.
And oh, what wonder
To walk up Ludgate hill
Toward St. Paul's,
And in dark ruins find the evening primrose
Glowing among the stones.*

—GERTRUDE FLETCHER.

GOLDEN BOY

*They say that some
Are born beneath
A lucky star,
With a silver spoon
To cut their teeth.*

*But not this one
So shining lad
With the faery gift
Of being glad.
Sudden and fleet
As a yearling colt,
(Palomino-colored thunderbolt!)
He walks on air,
His feet have wings,
He garners joy
As a skylark sings.
He was born to wear
A crown of sunlight
On his hair,
A star of laughter
In his eyes
And a silver tongue
To trip the wise.*

*His heart is tender
And will break
For a small dead bird,
Or a kitten's sake.
But he is plucky
As he is tall—
Perhaps he is lucky
After all!*

—NATALIE FLOHR

Days Before Yesterday

Two hundred and fifty people crowded into the Girl Scout House and overflowed into the lobby on Wednesday evening, October 9, for an evening by the fireside with Don Blanding, who generously gave a program of his poetry for the benefit of Carmel Woman's Club Building Fund.

Against a background of glowing logs, candlelight, and flowers, the poet and audience renewed a friendship which began several years ago when Blanding lived in (and named) Vagabond House in Carmel, where he wrote Drifter's Gold.

Notice of the event stirred recollections in the mind of Alicia L. Rooney, who writes from Scappoose, Oregon:

Oh, what wouldn't one give for the loan of a magic carpet, pending the more modern Atomic Energy, to be whisked back to Carmel and look in on that pleasant "evening by the fireplace" to hear Don's reading for old and new friends.

But being what is aptly termed here, a stump rancher, one's roots are deep and duties are implacable jailors.

Many there are who will remember how Don came to Carmel for a short visit and found his Vagabond's House come true. It was a lot he expected in his long search for a house. He'd dream-built it over and over again. Important details were familiar. There'd be no compromise, and he'd know it when he found it.

He could never be happy without the sea; nor the mountains. There must be "a tall pine tree" where, in the seasons a storm would cry and birds sing. There must be a great fireplace where he could burn chunks of driftwood logs over which he'd sprinkle colored crystals.

And in Carmel he found his house. He said it was in exactly the right spot, and had just enough things wrong with the house itself to provide him "grand fun in righting them."

He had his mountain and he had his sea, he had his house and his wind-blown cypress tree. And what fun he had when it was ship-shape. Exotic people and plain people came to Vagabond's House. Who remembers when he fitted up his "condiment shelf?" He was quick to seize upon the inspiration for imaginary trips to romantically mysterious lands. Already Vagabond's foot was beginning to twitch for he said it was a form of escape.

Between his attack of neuritis and the tonsillectomy, he wrote "Carmel-by-the-Sea." A perfect word portrait of the place that claims little bits of almost everyone who goes there and in exchange, give little bits of herself to anyone who will bother. Carmel charmed Don—even as you and me.

His condiment shelf became too alluring, and he had to go on what "THEY" called "an elimination diet," Don not exactly understanding what he was supposed to eliminate. He found out!

And he went in for gardening in a big way. He wrote of tall things, small things, and once granted an interview to an eighth grader who parked her gum on Don's gatepost. She was so "inspired" she said, that she forgot her gum on her way out.

He aroused many a good-natured complaint. His carpenter grumbled that Don would be knocking out a wall here, putting in a window there, when they were all in wheel chairs. Another everyday friend declared Don to be a bit goofy when he'd so often part with treasures he'd been so fond of. But all these things were part of the stuff of Don's life and were translated into eloquent verse.

Time, life and serenity settled like a wimple over Vagabond's House, but not the Vagabond himself. About the time perfection had been achieved, the old restlessness stirred strongly in him, and almost before anyone realized it, he was gone.

It's been quite a spell. But Carmel and those who knew him and love his books must be delighted to have him back, even briefly.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, October 20, for which this Golden Text is taken from II Corinthians: "All things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation" (5:18). The following citations are included in the sermon:

John 1:14. "And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory of the only begotten of the Father), full of grace and truth."

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. "The atonement is a hard problem in theology, but its scientific explanation is, that suffering is an error of sinful sense which Truth destroys, and that eventually both sin and suffering will fall at the feet of everlasting Love" (6:23).

St. John's Chapel is a beautiful little church nestling in a grove of giant oak trees. Men and women from many lands have found it to be a place apart. It may be that you also will find its atmosphere congenial to the spiritual life. The Chapel is open all day long. Those who seek in its stillness to grow more conscious of God's presence do not go unrewarded.

Sunday services at eight and eleven a.m. The Chapel is close to Hotel Del Monte.

40 To Be Confirmed At Mission, Oct. 27

The Sacrament of Confirmation will be administered at the Old Mission on Sunday, October 27, at 3 p. m. The officiating Bishop will be the Rt. Rev. Joseph J. McGucken, auxiliary Bishop of Los Angeles, who is now acting in the capacity of Apostolic Administrator for the Diocese of Monterey-Fresno during the illness of Bishop Philip G. Scher.

A class of about forty young people and adults is to receive confirmation. An intensive course of instruction will be given to such prospective candidates as may have been unable to register before with the Mission clergy.

Confirmation classes will be held at 4:00 o'clock on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoon of this week at Junipero Serra School for children attending the public schools. On Saturday morning, at 10:00 o'clock a practice will take place in the Carmel Mission.

Musical Art Club To Hold Members' Concert Sunday

The Musical Art Club will hold its seventh program of the 1946 series, the second since the summer vacation, on Sunday evening, October 20, at the music room of the Carmel High School at 8:00 o'clock. Members who have received notices through the mail, and who may not receive their second notice, should take note that the plan to hold the concert at the home of Mrs. Carmalita Benson has been changed.

The program, featuring piano and vocal selections by members of the club, will be open to members of the club, their houseguests, and other guests presenting guest cards. Light refreshments will be served following the recital.

Peninsula artists who will appear on the program will be Carl Bensberg, Marjorie Legge Wurzman, Ida Best, Rue Manhire, and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Abinante. Planning of the recital has been under the direction of Mrs. Robert Newby of Monterey, program chairman of the club.

treasurer.

Of the fifteen directors chosen, three are Carmel people: Mayor Fred Godwin, E. W. Cochrane and Howard Monroe.

Hi Chatter . . .

By MARY GREGORY

Although the pictures are rarely so bad as those portrayed would have you believe, there has been an abundance of groaning this week as Student Body cards with identifying pictures have been sold. Whether or not the likenesses are good, it is hard to impair the value of these cards, which, at a total cost of $2.50, can save students up to $13.50 on games and other school functions this year. As the sale of these cards is one of the chief sources of income for the student body, it is hoped (and expected) that the sales will equal those of last year—98 percent.

More club officers elected during the last week have been Joan Carr, Owen Greenan, and Cynthia Carr, president, vice president, and secretary respectively of the Spanish club, and Lee Winslow, Artie Harbor, John Blinks, and Gene Vandervort (treasurer) of the Rifle club. The Spanish club, under the sponsorship of Donald Craig, is busily making preparations for a dance which it will give for the student body soon. The Rifle club, sponsored by Harold Grande, has not made any plans yet.

Speaking of clubs, we received a lovely letter from Miss Elizabeth Niles of the town library saying that there are on hand many books which might be of interest to the various clubs. Included in the list are books for the language clubs, the Dramatic club, the Rifle club, and the Games, Radio, and Stamp clubs.

And speaking of libraries, an interview with Mrs. Mariquita Brey yielded many interesting facts about our own library at school. It seems that its books number 1,356, which go to make up a most complete reference section, rounded out last year by Mrs. Helen Larky's gift of a set of Collier's Encyclopedias. Gifts of Mrs. Brey and Colleen Clay have helped out the modern fiction section, which is still in need of many books. Mrs. Brey hopes that during the year this section as well as the sections of classical and modern European books can be enlarged by donations and purchases. She also plans to start a shelf containing autographed first editions of Carmel authors. Don Blanding's Today Is Here is the first of this collection.

Two very enjoyable assemblies during these last weeks have been Don Blanding's and Delbert K. Harter's. Mr. Blanding, who addressed the student Wednesday, October 9, read poems from his latest publication, and talked about the writing profession. His full-size illustrations of Edythe Hope Genee's book of poetry, which will come out in January, were exhibited also.

Mr. Harter was the guest speaker last Monday, October 14. He gave a very amusing as well as instructive speech about his travels, and many interesting souvenirs were shown.

Engagement Announced

Stafford Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hughes of Carmel will marry Mary Bell Woodall, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George H. Woodall of Phoenix, Arizona, November 16. The engagement was announced at a luncheon given by Mrs. Woodall at the Phoenix Country Club Saturday, October 5. Miss Woodall is a graduate of Phoenix Union High School, where she was a member of the National Honor Society, of Phoenix Junior College where she was a member of the Honor Board and treasurer of the student body. Miss Woodall majored in history and government at Mills College, graduating in 1943. While at Mills, Miss Woodall was president of Orchard-Meadow Hall during her senior year, member of the executive board of the student body, and member of Palladium, women's honor society. She has served as counselor in girls' camps, studied in Mexico at the University, been employed as social worker in Maricopa County, Arizona, and has done air-research work.

Stafford Hughes, the son of A. C. Hughes, president of the Monterey Trust and Savings Bank, is at present associated with the Monterey branch of this institution. He went to Salinas Junior High School, Pomona College, and was graduated from Stanford in 1943. Since his graduation, Stafford has studied banking methods at the Valley National Bank in Phoenix, was connected with the branch of The National City Bank of New York in Mexico City. He is vice-president of the Monterey Peninsula Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The wedding will be solemnized in Phoenix at Trinity Cathedral.

Teen-Age Dances

Students of the Dean-Marion School of the Dance will have a dance at the Girl Scout House on Thursday evening, October 25, from 7:30 to 9, and on Friday every week thereafter. There will be instruction in the latest variations of the rumba, samba, tango, and waltz, followed by an informal dance. A large party will be given once a month for the members.

Out Of Army

J. C. Buckholder is another Carmel man who is out of the army and glad of it. He served two years with the army and returned about the first of the month from Camp Hood in Texas.

Flying To Knoxville

Mrs. J. E. Carty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hughes of Carmel Woods, left Tuesday by plane with her son, Stuart, for Knoxville, Tennessee, where they will visit with Mr. Carty's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stuart. Mrs. Carty will fly from Knoxville to Phoenix, Arizona, in November for the wedding of her brother, Stafford, and Mary Bell Woodall.

Toziers Have Guests

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tozier took a holiday in San Francisco and on their return to Carmel entertained Miss Julia Grafigna and Mrs. Genevieve Vielee of San Francisco, showing them the sights of the Monterey Peninsula.

Nicholas Roosevelt to Return

Nicholas Roosevelt, who has been on the editorial staff of the New York Times, is selling his Long Island estate and will return to his home on Partington Ridge south of Big Sur in about six weeks. He will be accompanied by Walter Davenport, the editor of Colliers.

AAUW Meeting

The American Association of University Women, Monterey Peninsula Branch, will have an evening of art for the October meeting set for Friday, October 25, at 7:45 at the Carmel art gallery. Mrs. Charles E. Simpson of Monterey, arts and crafts chairman of the AAUW, is in charge of the program, with Mrs. Nelly Montague, curator of the gallery, as the speaker.

New Baby

Miss Muriel Pulitzer was in town this week and brings news of the birth of her nephew, Nicholas Wheeler Wood, at Stanford Hospital, September 21. Nicholas is the son of the former Barbara Pulitzer and Robert Wood Jr., who were married at Del Monte Chapel in 1943, when Mr. Wood was stationed with the Engineer Corps at Fort Ord. He afterward went to the Pacific. Mrs. Walter Pulitzer and her daughters, Muriel and Barbara, lived in Carmel for several years before moving to San Francisco.

Farewell Santa Barbara

Mrs. Whitney Alexander and her mother, Mrs. Charles Harris Whitney, who came from Santa Barbara two months ago for a visit in Carmel, have returned and will make their home here. They recently have been in Piqua, Ohio, visiting Mrs. A. Acton Hall, daughter of Mrs. Whitney and sister of Mrs. Alexander.

Knox "Anne" Children

H. T. Knox Jr., his wife, and three children, are guests of Mrs. Anne Knox at her home, Monte Verde and Fifth. The children are Mary Anne, Beverly Anne, and Nancy Anne. The Knoxes hope to make their home in Carmel if they can find a house.

89th Birthday

Last week was a memorable one for the Montgomery family on Carmel Point. They had a reunion here in celebration of the 89th birthday of their mother, Mrs. Agnes Montgomery.

Those participating in the happy event were her three daughters, the Misses Elizabeth and Eleanor Montgomery of Carmel, and Mrs. Douglas Carter of Oakland. Her son, Hosmer, and his wife, arrived from Los Angeles.

Her birthday fell upon October 9, but messages of congratulation came by mail, wire, and long distance telephone for many days.

This homage made the recipient "Queen for a Week" in a very real sense.

The most thrilling event was a long distance phone call from her 86-year-old sister who lives in St. Louis.

The years have not robbed Mrs. Montgomery or her vivid personality nor cooled the cheery warmth of her oldtime Southern hospitality.

Her alert mind keeps abreast of the times and her insight into the details of world affairs enables her to hold her own in any discussion.

One of Mrs. Montgomery's greatest charms is her quick responsiveness and eager interest in the lives of her friends.

Lunch In Patio

Mrs. Henry Seron invited the F. R. F. G. Study Club of Santa Clara valley to spend the day and have lunch in her patio last week. Mrs. Seron was a member of this club when she lived in the Santa Clara valley. It is probably the oldest club of its kind in the state, having been formed more than fifty years ago. The number of members is limited and there is always a waiting list, as nobody has ever resigned.

Luncheon was served in the patio under a spreading tree, with profusions of tuberous begonias on every side. Mrs. Seron was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. John W. Morse and Mrs. J. D. Coolidge. In the caravan which came down from the Santa Clara valley were Miss Lida Leanon, one of the oldest members, the Mrs. Lorene Bogle, Helen Brown, Evelyn Casey, Alma Chesbro, Georgie Eschenburg, Elma Hadley, Mildred Hanna, Josephine Harley, Jennie Johnson, Irma Kilgore, Irene Martin, Ida Parish, Ina Pyle, Lucille Robinson, Alta Rycraft, Florine Thayer, Blanche Thomas, Eva Weske, Gertrude Winans and Helen Worthington.

Want a Vacation from Marriage?

Alvin Blake went south on his vacation, for some fishing, and left his Missus to enjoy a vacation from the corn-cob pipe, clothes in a heap, and solos on the harmonica.

First few days, Martha enjoyed it—house neat and quiet, top back on the toothpaste, no morning mess from Alvin's midnight snacks (Al's partial to a bit of cheese and beer at bedtime).

Come the end of the week, she began to fidget; couldn't even read the Clarion, it looked so unmussed; didn't have any appetite with nobody to cook for. She was about to wire Al, when he barges home a week ahead of time, and she almost cries for gratitude. ("Felt the same 'ax myself," says Al.)

From where I sit, those differences of habit and opinion—whether they have to do with corn-cob pipes, a glass of beer, or playing the harmonica, seem mighty trivial when you're separated. And they are, too!

Jane Millis Engaged

Mrs. Vera Peck Millis is announcing the engagement of her daughter, Jane Millis, to Lloyd J. Borstelmann. Miss Millis was graduated from Sunset School in San Francisco and the University of California and for the last two years has been in Chicago with the National Labor Relations Board. She is well known in Carmel where her mother has lived for a number of years. Mr. Borstelmann is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Borstelmann of Ventura, California. The wedding will take place in the near future and the young people will live in the San Francisco Bay area where Lloyd is a graduate student in clinical psychology at the University in Berkeley.

Mrs. Balsam Entertains

In honor of her mother, Mrs. Charles Eldridge of Greenwich, Rhode Island, Mrs. Howard Balsam entertained a group of young army women at supper last Saturday. Guests included Mrs. Leroy Collins Jr., Mrs. Robert Starkey, Miss Helen Tooker, Mrs. Bruce Palmer, Mrs. Alfred Fry, Mrs. Joan Jones, and Mrs. Charles White Jr.

Hit Trail For Southwest

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Lewis leave tomorrow for a two weeks' trip through New Mexico and Arizona. They will visit in Los Angeles, Albuquerque, Roswell and McNary, Arizona, where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Pennoyer, formerly of Carmel. Mr. Lewis expects to pursue his hobby of photographing the desert, and the Indians in which he became interested when he was connected with the Indian Service in New Mexico.

Flies To St. Paul

Mrs. James Cooper Doud left Monday morning for San Francisco and from there will fly to St. Paul where she will meet Peggy and they will visit at the home of Miss Doud's future parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Shreve M. Archer. Plans will be formulated for the wedding of Miss Doud and Shreve MacLaren Archer Jr., which will be early in December.

Mrs. Baxter Returns

Mrs. T. F. Baxter, who has been in Stockton for the past week visiting her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Detrich and family, returned to Carmel yesterday.

Fuchsia Garden Tour

Members and friends of the Monterey Peninsula Branch of the American Fuchsia Society visited the gardens of Mrs. Lawrence Lyons, president of the society, recently, for a tour of the gardens.

As they followed Mrs. Lyons through the garden paths and into the new lathe house, she named each type of fuchsia from her collection which probably contains as many varieties as any garden on the peninsula. In the main garden there are hardier, older tree and shrub fuchsias of many years' growth, banked against and among the fine old oak trees. These plants show the care of trimming and pruning at the proper season and bear fine blossoms all through the blooming season and late into the fall and winter. Hanging baskets are suspended here and there from the oak branches, gracefully adding their colorful blossoms to the lovely picture.

The lathe house, at the end of a path bordered by fine specimens of older tree fuchsias, has all the attributes which gladden the heart of the fuchsia devotee. Splendid hanging baskets artistically designed of redwood, others of glazed pottery containing full flowering trailing fuchsias, some in jardinières, many young plants in pots, others planted in the rich ground soil—all were there in profusion. The Lawrence Lyons may well be proud of this gorgeous display in their new lathe-house, which they built themselves less than six months ago.

Their good neighbors, the Misses Myrtle and Winona Winthrop, have a lovely garden adjoining, which may be entered through a rustic gateway. Under the oaks at the back are several hanging baskets of choice fuchsias and some beautiful tree and shrub varieties. The garden has many other flowering shrubs, especially fine pelargoniums and an improved plumbago in full bloom, which is a fine example of the harmony achieved by planting other flowers along with fuchsias.

Another fine neighboring garden belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Kerr, where a background of oak trees makes a perfect setting for basket and tree fuchsias. In this garden rare ferns were also to be found, which blend harmoniously with fuchsias.

After the tour of the various gardens, a meeting of the society was held in Mrs. Lyons' patio. A report was given of Fuchsia Festival held in the Girl Scout House, and it was found that a substantial amount had been added to the treasury from door admissions as well as from the sale of small plants donated by members and friends of the society.

A meeting will be held here late in October, when Dr. Fred Davis of Berkeley, charter member of the American Fuchsia Society, will speak. The date will be announced later.

Return With Catch

Mr. and Mrs. Winslow Dodges of Carmel Highlands are home after a month's vacation. They drove up the coast and did some salmon fishing, and were lucky enough to catch enough to can. They visited Victoria and Vancouver, where they attended the West Coast Life Insurance convention, and came home by way of Crater Lake, and spent a week at Tahoe.

Will Visit Paul Lows

Mrs. Frank Bumgarner, wife of Dr. Frank Bumgarner, who was a major in the medical corps at Fort Ord for three years and lived in Carmel, will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Low for the weekend. Dr. Bumgarner is now stationed at Van Nuys with the Veterans Administration.

Takes In The Shows

Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte went to San Francisco last week as the guest of Miss Helen LeConte. While in the city, Mrs. Clairmonte saw the two current plays there, The Glass Menagerie and The State of the Union.

Home From Los Angeles

Mrs. Speirs Ruskell, who spent a week in Los Angeles visiting her mother, returned last week to Carmel.

Via Back Door

Garden Wedding

In the colorful and lovely garden of her home on the Point, Frances Manney and Morley Baer were united in marriage Monday morning at 11:30. Judge Ray Baugh performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of close friends and relatives who had come to Carmel for the occasion.

Autumn sunshine poured over the happy bride who wore a hounds tooth check in browns, shot with blue. She wore no hat, or ornaments, and her flowers were the profusion of blooms in the garden. Mrs. G. W. Stuart, her matron of honor was dressed in a suit of dark blue georgette.

The bride is the daughter of the late Colonel H. N. Manning of the Marines. Morley Baer, the groom, is the well known photographer on Sixth near Dolores.

After the ceremony luncheon was served. Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. Theodore Baer of Chicago, father and mother of the groom, his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Schweitzer of Los Angeles, and a brother of the bride, Henry N. Manney of Virginia Beach, Virginia. Colonel and Mrs. G. W. Stuart, close friends of Miss Manney, were the only other guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Baer will spend their honeymoon in the Stuart's guest house and will be at home to their many friends at the home of the bride on the Point after October 24.

Even Break on Boys and Girls

When the Pine Cone went to press after taking the baby census at the Community Hospital, the score stood two to two for boys and girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruel F. King of Santa Rita and Serra are the parents of a little girl, Joan Carol, who was born October 9.

Virgil Partch, nationally known cartoonist, and Mrs. Partch are perfectly satisfied with Anna Pavloff, who was born October 10, and they have no idea of exchanging her. Mr. and Mrs. Partch live in Robles del Rio.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Garrett of Robles del Rio are happy to announce the arrival of Edward Ross on October 13, which makes that a lucky day for the Garratts.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Reynolds, Camino del Monte and Pescadera have accepted with pleasure the fine little boy, born on October 15, but they have not yet found a name for him.

Art Gifts to OWO

At the Carmel Woman's Club General Meeting on October 7, Mrs. Alton Walker, former president, placed on exhibit a beautiful oil painting To Hidden Hills by Ferdinand Burgdorff, which had been given to the Club by Mrs. Edith C. Wooster. Announcement was also made of another painting by Miss Elizabeth Strong which the artist, since deceased, had given to the Club several years ago. Both these paintings will be placed in storage pending placement in the Club's projected new Club House.

Dr. Kocher in San Francisco

Dr. R. A. Kocher left for San Francisco Wednesday morning to attend the Postgraduate Symposium on Heart Disease being held from October 16 to October 19 at the various San Francisco hospitals.

Dr. John Parkinson of National Heart Hospital, London, England, will be the guest speaker. When Dr. Kocher was stationed near Oxford, England, in the spring of 1944 he took a special course with Dr. Parkinson.

Abernathy Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Faser of San Jose spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. John E. Abernathy. Mrs. Faser is Mrs. Abernathy's sister.

Miss Edna Owings

Edna Owings was seen in the village recently after being out of circulation since January 7 when she fell and broke her hip. After months of hospitalization, she was able to be taken to her home, but only recently has she ventured to walk as far as the post office.

Cast Shoves Off Pinafore

Gold Coast Troopers abandoned the good ship Pinafore Monday night and the whole crew went to Santa Cruz as the guests of Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous to see The Hasty Heart. They drove to Santa Cruz, and after the performance, stopped and had a midnight supper on the way home.

Warren Johnson Returning

Mrs. Frances Cottle Johnson received a telegram from her son Warren on Tuesday saying that his ship, Westminster Victory, had arrived in San Francisco. Warren, a corporal in the Army, will be sent to Camp Beale to be discharged, and will then return to his home in Carmel. The Corporal has been fifteen months, most of that time in the Philippines, with the Recovery Personnel of the Army.

Junipero Serra Mother's Club

Junipero Serra Mother's Club held its meeting the first Thursday in October at Crespi Hall with the new president, Mrs. Ben Updike, presiding. It was decided that they would make their project for the year raising money for playground equipment. As a start they will give a card party in November.

Book Club Meeting

The Carmel Woman's Club Book Section will hold its first meeting of the year next Monday afternoon, October 21, at 2 p. m. in the Girl Scout House, Sixth and Lincoln street, Carmel.

Mrs. H. S. Upjohn, chairman of the section, will present Looks at Books, including a general survey of the book situation in England and America, and brief comments on some of the books, both old and new, in the Club's lending library.

Col. Pulliam Returns

Col. W. E. Pulliam returned this week from a trip to the northwest to visit his nephew, Harry P. Cain, former mayor of Tacoma, and now Republican candidate to U. S. Senate in the coming election. Cain was only 34 years old when he was elected mayor of Tacoma. He subsequently spent three years in overseas service, was discharged with the rank of Colonel and now, at the age of 40, re-enters political life as candidate for the Senate.

Inter-Racial Meet

The Council for Civic Unity of the Monterey Peninsula, formerly the Inter-Racial Council, will meet with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People on Monday, October 21, 8 p. m. at the USO on Del Monte Avenue in Monterey. The speaker for the evening will be Mrs. Osborn of Berkeley who will discuss the Fair Employment Practices Commission. Also on the program will be the singing of negro spirituals by a local chorus. Booths will be set up to demonstrate voting procedure. The public is invited and no admission is charged.

Chess Tournament

Chess enthusiasts of the Carmel area are invited to participate in the Monterey Bay Inter-City Chess tournament to be held on Wednesday evenings starting November 20 at the YMCA building in Salinas. Two classes of play will be held, one for championship and the other for class "B" players. Attractive awards will be presented to the winners. Entries must be in to the YMCA not later than Wednesday, November 6, and pairings will be announced the following Wednesday evening. A nominal entry fee will be required. This tournament is sponsored and promoted by the newly organized Monterey Bay Chess Club, membership in which is open to all men and women and youth of the bay area. A. W. Flip-pin is president of the organization. Not only is its purpose to encourage play on the part of the experienced but also for new players. Meetings are held each Wednesday evening from 7:00 to 10:00 p. m. at the YMCA building.

Team play is being carried on in preparation for play with a group of Sacramento chess followers.

The Rev. Seccombe Arrives

The Reverend Alfred B. Seccombe arrived in Carmel Tuesday and will occupy the pulpit of All Saints' Episcopal Church four Sundays, beginning October 21. The Rev. Seccombe, a graduate of Virginia Theological Seminary Alexandria, Virginia, was Chaplain at Yale University, following his ordination. While there, he joined the Navy, where he served during the war. When he was released from the service he went to Edinburgh, Scotland, for further study.

The Reverend Seccombe drove from Virginia with his wife and two little girls, age 2 and 4. Mrs. Seccombe is the daughter of the Rev. John A. Welbourn of Leesburg, Virginia, who served for many years as a missionary in Japan.

The Seccombes will occupy White Cedars on Ninth between Dolores and Lincoln during their stay in Carmel.

Legion Hallowe'en Party

Edgar Leslie, entertainment chairman, reports that plans for The American Legion's Hallowe'en Party on the evening of October 26, are going ahead at a fine pace. Legionnaires, Auxiliary members, their families and friends will enjoy an evening of gaiety typical of many of the Legion parties of other peace-time years.

Last Monday evening Bill Spangle, local photographer, showed 16 mm color film of France and Germany, which he had taken while he was a combat photographer with the 9th Infantry Division. This interesting film was enjoyed by many members, who were present at the regular Monday social evening of the Legion Club.

Council of Church Women

Monterey Peninsula Council of Church Women will hold the November meeting on Friday, November 1, at Hayes Chapel in Seaside. This is the Colored Methodist Church with the Reverend Wellington Smith as pastor. Women's organizations of most of the churches on the Peninsula are affiliated with the Council. Mrs. Ramsey Benson of Carmel is president.

Elizabeth Houghton Engaged

Miss Elizabeth Houghton, daughter of Mrs. Eleanor Minton James, announced her engagement to David G. Nes on Thursday at a luncheon held at her home in Carmel.

They met two years ago at the Del Monte Lodge, when Mr. Nes was a Captain at Fort Ord, before he went overseas in the artillery to the Burma and China campaigns. A resident of Baltimore, Maryland, he graduated from Princeton in 1939, and did post-graduate work at Harvard University. Prior to entering the State Department in Washington, D. C., he worked for a year on the Baltimore Sun, and is now a member of the Foreign Service of the United States. His present post is vice-consul at Glasgow, Scotland, where the young couple will live.

Elizabeth, a resident of Carmel for many years, is a graduate of Stanford, and worked on the Carmel Cymbal and the Carmel Pine Cone. She recently taught freshman English at the University of Southern California while working for her Master's degree. She is the granddaughter of Dr. and Mrs. J.

George Taylor, and a niece of Mrs. Chester Hare.

Elizabeth is sailing Nov. 29 on the Queen Elizabeth for England, where she and David will be married in London before going to their Glasgow home. Although David will be stationed at Glasgow for three years, he is very fond of the Monterey Peninsula, and hopes to be able to make many visits here in the years to come.

At the engagement luncheon on Thursday, Elizabeth announced the happy news by giving each guest a miniature passport containing pictures of herself and her fiancé. Those present at the luncheon were Miss Joan Tait, Miss Sally Fry, Mesdames Hal Leonard, Ray Draper, Jack Geisen, Herman Iverson, Cynthia Seaborn and Pat Moran.

Back From Golfing Round

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Kramer are back this week after ten days vacation in the northern part of the state, where they tried out the golf courses at Sonoma, Ben Bow, and Scotia. At Sonoma they found that the Bill Irwins and Earl Glennons had been vacationing there before them and had just departed.

Here you are bang in the middle of what is conservatively called the country's most beautiful scenery, and if you don't own a camera it seems rather silly. THE BEAUX ARTS PHOTOGRAPHY SHOP on Lincoln and Ocean has every conceivable piece of equipment necessary for picture taking—and at the moment the shop is fortunate in having MOVIE CAMERAS for sale. MOVIE CAMERAS have been worse than scarce, but BEAUX ARTS has them now, with film to match in black and white or color, plus projectors and portable roll-up screens to be brought out of the closet in a minute when a potential audience arrives.

LIAL'S MUSIC SHOP on Ocean and Monte Verde with an inlaid guitar on its shelves, boasts two fine new albums this week. Lily Pons, the most famous of contemporary coloratura sopranos, has made a new album of two arias dear to the heart of coloraturas: The Bell Song from Lakme and the Mad Scene from Lucia di Lammermoor. A new Victor album is J. S. Bach's The Art of the Fugue. The recording, a substantial album, is made by E. Power Biggs, playing the Baroque organ in the Germanic Museum of Harvard University.

HELEN'S JUVENILE SHOP on Ocean between Lincoln and Dolores has authentic Scotch plaids in soft washable wools made into most attractive matching skirts and blouses to melt the heart of the juvenile trade. The skirts are pleated all round and have zipper closings. They make smart outfits for anyone who comes in sizes three to fourteen. HELEN'S JUVENILE SHOP has whatever a young person needs, whether it's wool skirts, boys' coat and legging suits, corduroy overalls, pedal pushers or blazers. You'll find these indispensable knitted balbriggan pajamas there in sizes up to twelve, as well as neat designs in young girls' caps. HELEN carries also a large assortment of gifts for babies, from the daintiest of dresses to the shiniest of rattles.

The beautiful art books published by the Phaidon Press and Hyperion-Harper have appeared up at the CARMEL BOOKSELLERS on Mission north of Fifth. Two of the splendid books from the Phaidon Press are of drawings in the Royal Collection at Windsor Castle. The book of Holbein's drawings is particularly fine. Other books from the Phaidon Press with magnificent reproductions and excellent paper include the work of Bellini, Etruscan Sculpture and Roman Portraits. It's fascinating to examine the Roman portrait sculpture of fifteen hundred years ago. The faces look out as individual and lively as those in Carmel's streets. The Iris books from the Oxford University Press are as beautiful as any books in the shop. The illustration, either natural color or photographs or water colors, are reproduced with brilliance and clarity. There's a volume on Shells, one on Butterflies, one on Wonders of the Sea with fabulous sea creatures swimming about, and one on Alpine Flowers absorbing either to the botanist, the flower lover or to anyone who loves beautifully made books.

There's many a place in your life for a good brush. THE CARMEL HARDWARE STORE on Dolores south of Ocean has brushes for every occasion. Take a neat little whisk broom to hide away in the pocket of your car to keep your shoes clean, or a small soft brush to keep by the wash basin for scrubbing small grubby fingers. You may have a giant push broom two and a half feet wide or a soft squishy bottle brush. These are inexpensive brushes with smooth wooden backs and either soft or stiff bristles in white or black, smelling fresh as a summer hayfield. For anything in the brush line look to THE CARMEL HARDWARE STORE.

A Chinese sage sits under an ancient cypress tree growing from a rocky ledge in the N. B. FLOWER SHOP on Lincoln south of Ocean. There's a blossoming cherry tree and an apple tree putting out flowers from its gnarled limbs, all made by the skilful hands of Mrs. Nelson of the N. B. FLOWER SHOP. These miniature tree arrangements are made from natural materials, beautifully twisted branches, and flower heads, and they have all the beauty and grace of the oriental dwarf trees pictured in Life Magazine last week, but the miniature trees from N. B. FLOWER SHOP need no constant attention and care, like the growing dwarfs. They are permanently fixed on firm bases and may even be shipped anywhere in the country.

The new Eaton writing papers in FORTIER'S on Ocean Avenue certainly takes the business of writing letters out of the doldrums. The dullest letter will assume appealing proportions when written on Eaton's Embroidered Crystal Sheer, a crisp paper, delicate but strong, in faint pastels iced with a floral pattern like etcher crystal. Eaton's Love Letters is a fine white paper with envelopes lined in flower-scattered pastels, and the Fashion Plaid is another paper that crackles nicely with a shadow plaid on the reverse side to form a background for your words. Eaton's Highland Vellum for Men is a heavier paper in an off-white shade that will doubtless induce the most recalcitrant male to write a letter. In FORTIER'S you'll also find a writing paper decorated with an authentic etching from Carmel, noted Cypress Point.

Fascinating boxes from China are being unpacked at JOYCE'S on Ocean Avenue. Mrs. Eagleton has brought out miniature porcelain vases in soft colors, decorated with flowers, and boats carved from teakwood, with a bewildering detail of gear, and prancing wild-eyed Chinese horses flourishing their tails in the air, and slippery little fishes. From China also come fine vases in a larger size. Look for the turquoise vase with four different flower panels. There's a hand-carved salad set in a most generous size with twisted tines to its fork and grinning Chinese faces on the handles. You'll find beautiful necklaces of polished branch coral in JOYCE'S, too, to twist with your pearls or wear alone.

Sampling the new wares at THE VILLAGE BOOKSHOP on Ocean Avenue, we find books for armchair criminals, for students of public affairs, for village-bound travellers, books for anyone who likes to read, in brief. Mexico South, by Covarrubias, is a book mammoth both in size and concept. It's a magnificent examination into the Isthmus of Tehuantepec from every angle—geographical, ethnological, anthropological, literary, and historical, with numerous paintings, drawings, and photographs. Then there's Leland Stowe's While Time Remains, an analysis of the problems at the base of world tension today, or the Complete Murder Sampler. Rumer Godden's new book, Thus Far and No Farther, is an idyllic story for those in search of peaceful reading, and Driftwood Valley is equally idyllic in a different setting.

It's a wise child who knows when it's going to rain, and you'll be wise and beautiful too in a raincoat from HOWARD'S DRESS SHOP on Alvarado street in Monterey. HOWARD'S raincoats are a far cry from the drab things in which we used to sneak out, for HOWARD'S raincoats come in every color of the rainbow with the gleam of satin and the sheen of nylon, smartly cut and well made. There's a smart taffeta raincoat in black and white checks that will make you long for a rainy day, and a coat of plastic coated nylon in black and various colors which is not only very becoming with its broad shoulders and flaring skirt, but also practically indestructible. It is guaranteed against almost everything. HOWARD'S has raincoats of every description, in covert, gabardine, reversible woolen, satin, taffeta and poplin and their colors are gay enough to make you forget the sun isn't shining.

If tonight is cold and dark think of going into HILLYER'S COFFEE SHOP on San Carlos south of Ocean, where it's warm and pleasant and quiet and a dinner of steak will be set before you with hot biscuits and butter and honey and jam. T-bone and rib steaks are a specialty of HILLYER'S, and they do fine things with liver and onions, too. Colonel Hillyer says there may have to be a slight advance in prices, but he's fighting against it, and hopes there'll be no change in prices.

With a three piece suit, consisting of skirt, jacket and slacks, from THE COLLEGIATE DRESS SHOP on Alvarado street in Monterey you'll be prepared to look your best at any occasion. We liked best a suit in a fine wrinkle-resistant fabric of oyster white, marked by a thin red stripe, with a jacket cut along long slim lines, and a pleated skirt, and a pair of slacks beautifully draped and marked by half-belts on each side of the waist to cinch in your middle. This is a smooth number, marked by that enviable air of casual elegance. There's another suit of rich brown gabardine, with a smart long-sleeved bolero-jacket, a slim skirt and a fine pair of slacks. The plain bolero is enhanced by three long tassels, and the suit, whether you wear it as dress or slack suit, is capable of looking most stunning. Think of it with a blouse in turquoise and melon, and the thought will carry you right into THE COLLEGIATE DRESS SHOP.

THE WURZMANN TYPEWRITER EXCHANGE on Alvarado street in Monterey has every description of Christmas card—from satin and gold embossed folders to humorous cards for intimate friends. Rustcraft is a noted name in cards and WURZMANN'S carries the complete Rustcraft line. However, Christmas is a-coming on, and if you're wise you'll order your cards from THE WURZMANN TYPEWRITER EXCHANGE immediately in order that they may be printed with your name and safely delivered to you before the Christmas rush begins. This is one chore you can easily and simply accomplish now, so call at WURZMANN'S and settle the card problem once and for all.

Fresh fish butchered by the deft and skilful hand of Joe Minafo, who in eighteen years has learned to clean a fish as slick as a whistle, awaits you daily at the PACIFIC MUTUAL FISH COMPANY on Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey. Irridescent and beautiful, rock cod, salmon, albacore, sand dabs and sea bass lie on their bed of ice. You may have grunions, too—a grunion is a fine sweet-water fish. See that you save time when fish-shopping to sample the sea-food cocktails at THE PACIFIC MUTUAL FISH COMPANY, whose cocktails of shrimp and crab and oyster are served up ice cold with a sauce worthy of such delicacies.

Gather round the fire in the PATIO ROOM of the CASA MUNRAS HOTEL in Monterey this Saturday night for an evening of good company, good food and good music. The MERIENDA ROOM and the PATIO ROOM make a brilliant setting for a celebration, and over the well-laid tables with the firelight flickering on your china, you'll feel most gay and romantic with Danziger's music in the background. Dinner—including steaks—is served from five-thirty until nine, and at nine there'll be dancing until midnight.

In LOUDA'S on Lincoln south of Ocean we looked in to yearn over the furs. There's a four skin fur scarf of China mink flung with regal negligence in the window, beside a rich coat with graceful classic lines made of the same fur, which may be wild Oriental weasel, but it has the richness and beauty which is possessed by all furs from LOUDA'S. You'll find great satisfaction too in an Ermine-Locke coat in rich, deep brown which you can see in LOUDA'S.

Now with the dark night closing in, early and probably damp, there is pleasure in thinking of dinner in THE DINING ROOM of LA RIBERA HOTEL on Ocean and Seventh, where warmth and candlelight and music and above all good food can make the encroaching winter seem almost pleasant. There's a comforting atmosphere in LA RIBERA'S DINING ROOM and you can linger as long as you wish over that second cup of coffee and listen to the music, while the surf beats down on the shore. Dinner hour in LA RIBERA'S DINING ROOM is from five-thirty until eight-thirty, except on Sunday, when the hours are five to eight, and Mr. Hellum holds out the promise of steaks and prime ribs of beef, in addition to his other fine food.

THE DISCOVERY SHOP is having a sale—to close out all of its bars and all of its stock of Ficks-Reed furniture, at one-third off regular price. The bars are of two kinds—one variety that flaunts its barishness and looks like nothing but a bar—and a very handsome one—and the other variety that can conceal its identity when less-bibulous company arrives and look like a radio or a nice sewing cabinet. In the former category are several handsome modern pieces, but chief among them is a portable pine bar equipped better than the average kitchen, with chopping boards, multiple cabinets and cubby holes. Among the now-you-see-it-now-you-don't bars are some beautiful cabinets; there's one in bleached walnut handsome enough to sit proudly in any room, with a full complement of glasses inside and ample storage space. The Ficks-Reed furniture is of modern design, with frames of wheat colored wood and bamboo and webbing or upholstery in chartreuse or gray-blue. There are small dining tables, side chairs, arm chairs, tea trays and settees, all of excellent workmanship and design and selling at a price reduced one-third.

And here is a birth announcement. It seems the double blot on Carmel's escutcheon, the rampant flea and the insidious termite, are in for a hard time, for a new venture has been born, to reduce the birth rate among Carmel's less-loved population—and this venture is AILING HOUSE PEST CONTROL. This is the child of Herbert Blanks and Eugene Scheffer who have dedicated their future days in Carmel to see to it that termites, cockroaches, bed-bugs, moths, fleas, ants, rats, mice and flies have a very hard time of it indeed. If you have anything you want eliminated call 1844-W and ask for the services of the AILING HOUSE PEST CONTROL. It's a simple matter to rid your house of termites or moths—or what have you—if you ask the men who know, and Mr. Blanks and Mr. Scheffer have given the matter long study in order that they may be able to give prompt, reliable and efficient service as eliminators.

This is in the nature of a birthday announcement. Mr. Mansfield Turney's MEAT MARKET, in the CARMEL DRIVE-IN MARKET, will be a year old tomorrow. Mr. Turney's market has survived a year of the most parlous times a butcher ever experienced, and through days of continuing shortages he has supplied his customers with the best of milk-fed chickens from the Carmel Valley and the best of lamb and beef from Armour and Swift. He wishes to say thank you to his customers and hopes to continue to supply them through more opulent times.

The Carnation Milk Company's customers will be as contented as their cows when said customers go into the GROCERY DEPARTMENT of the CARMEL DRIVE-IN MARKET on Dolores and Eighth. A bottle of milk used to be just that, but now, in THE GROCERY DEPARTMENT of the CARMEL DRIVE-IN you may choose between Carnation Grade A pasteurized milk, Carnation, homogenized milk, Carnation butter-milk, Carnation half and half, Carnation coffee cream, and the newest member of the family Carnation Homogenized Multi-Vitamin Milk. This Carnation Multi-Vitamin milk deserves several words. Its flavor is that of natural rich milk and in it are all the vitamins needed by the human system. Not just one, but all the vitamins, in amounts equal to the average daily requirements of an adult. No more need you mess about with a bottle here, and a medicine dropper there, and a capsule on the side. A quart of Carnation Multi-Vitamin Milk contains ample supplies of vitamins A, B-1, C, D, and B-2. Since some of the potency of the milk is in the cream and some in the milk itself, Multi-Vitamin Milk is homogenized in order that it maintain the same texture throughout, so every drop of the milk contains the same amounts of vitamins and other necessary body building substances. There is no better way to take vitamins than in food itself. You'll find this Carnation Multi-Vitamin Milk at the Carmel Drive-In, in the Grocery Department, with other Carnation products, such as dated cottage cheese, Carnation butter and Carnation chocolate milk. All these products are delivered fresh daily in paper cartons, and, incidentally, Carnation coffee cream will whip.

A Fine Home

One of Carmel's finest homes, built of natural chalk rock with a Thatched Cedar Roof, a spacious living room; large dining room with inlaid floor; the kitchen is large with a built-in refrigerator and stainless steel sink boards; there are four bedrooms upstairs and two down, as well as a Maid's room. The landscaping fits in perfectly with this beautiful home and furthermore, there are eight lots included with this home, as well as new drapes and furnishings.

Here Are Hal Garrett's Ideas For Auditorium

quirements. "Of course such an auditorium would not pay for itself. A civic auditorium is a social, educational and cultural project. We do not expect a school or a public library to pay a profit. But rentals should amply cover the cost of maintenance."

"As for site, some nearly level acres just back of and above the State Forestry Fire Station on the Carmel-Pacific Grove highway have been mentioned. It is 2.2 miles from Colton Hall, 2.4 miles from Sunset school and 3.2 miles from Pacific Grove high school, but Pacific Grove people will have no steep hill to climb. If a road were cut up from the Monterey side, it would prevent the Pacific Grove highway becoming a bottle neck. The property is owned by Del Monte Properties Company, and Mr. Sam Morse, president of the company, favors the auditorium project and says he will do his share to bring it about. He will co-operate in every way. The site will command a magnificent view of Carmel and Monterey bays, and a lookout platform on the roof of an auditorium should prove a major attraction."

"Such a site is preferable to building the auditorium in the business section of one of the three cities, as it wouldn't be fair to place it in one town and require the citizens of the others to drive all the way there. Besides, such a building should be located outside of the congested district, because of the parking problem."

"As for the type of building recommended, a regular opera house with orchestra pit, inclined floor and completely equipped stage, large enough to handle all kinds of productions would be most desirable. This would rule out using the hall for sports events, dances. San Jose made the mistake of building an auditorium with a horizontal floor, and they are now planning to remedy the error by constructing a costly opera house. The Veterans Memorial Opera House in San Francisco did not make this mistake, and the popularity of that house for grand opera, ballets, and major musical events has grown enormously. Of course there are those who do not care for music and top-notch drama. They will want to make the auditorium adaptable for prize fights, wrestling matches, dancing. But it would seem better to build a special hall for such events, rather than mar the enjoyment of concert and theater-goers. The stage cannot even be seen from a large portion of the seats in the San Jose auditorium. "And now the question arises. How should the auditorium be financed? Everybody should help pay for it, from a child's two-bit donation to Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Holman's $5,000 subscription. Where possible public funds should be made available, then the tax payers would get something for their money."

"So far no committee has been formed. No plans have been made. I'm merely spreading the information, hoping others will come forward and take hold."

"It has been mentioned to make the auditorium a Veterans memorial, and it's a fine idea. Local veterans deserve a monument for their service to the country. Space should be provided for a Legion hall and assembly rooms."

Mrs. Porter Enchants Literature Class With Irish Tales

At Sunset School last Tuesday evening, Mrs. Susan Creighton Porter addressed Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte's class in literature on the subject of Irish mythology. When she began to tell some of the famous old tales her voice took on the timber of an organ and she wove a spell of enchantment over the audience. The heroic proportions of the poetry lifted the listeners to that realm where the self is not so much forgotten as made godlike, and when, all too soon, Mrs. Porter resumed a normal conversational tone in order to recommend related reading to the class, the return to earth could be made only by degrees.

Next Tuesday evening at 7:30 this class will discuss the life and work of Christopher LaFarge, and as usual guests will be welcome.
